Self-Convened Assembly Session, Against Thompson's Opposition, Now Expected to Validate Laws

By JOHN COURIC

A special self-convened session of Georgia's General Assembly loomed Friday night, this despite continued opposition from Acting Gov. Thompson, as Legislators frantically sought a means to validate some 350 local laws which the State Supreme Court earlier Friday apparently had ruled unconstitutinal. The Supreme Court ruled that enrolled, or permanently bound, copies of all local or special bills must contain copies of certificates or affidavits showing the bill was advertised before introduction. Few of the 1946 and 1947 local acts meet this provision.

Thompson Friday night flatly refused to call a special session even for the sole purpose of repassing the local legislation, a move being considered by solons who believe chaos will result if these local laws are not re-enacted.

Some supporters of the Acting Governor already had thrown their weight to a special session, a move formerly favored only by Herman Talmadge's solons.

The Thompson supporters, however, urged the Acting Governor to call the session and thereby limit it to repassage of local legislation. This he has refused to do. A self-convened session, favored by the Talmadgeites, could be used to consider any legislation, including acts designed to cripple the Thompson administration.

In a prepared statement, Thompson hinted he thought the improper enrollment of the acts may have been a deliberate move to force an extraordinary session. He declared:

"Since the decision of the Supreme Court today, several citizens have asked me if I did not think that errors or local bills were made deliberately in order to try to force a special session of the General Assembly. About this I do not know.

"I do know the records show beyond dispute that Roy Harris, as early as 1945, knew that the law under the Constitution as to requirements of local bills was precisely what the Supreme Court announced in its decision today.

"Roy should have included this in his instructions to Speaker Hand and House Clerk Boone.

"I know still further that the people of Georgia do not want to go to the extra expense of another political session.

"While I am not a lawyer, I believe that if valuable private rights have arisen in reliance upon local bills, they will not be held invalid by the courts although they were as invalid at the time of their enactment."

Harris, a former House Speaker, is Talmadge's chief mentor and is considered to have exercised considerable influence with Talmadge solons.

Thompson said he believed bond issues and land purchases made under the local laws would be up-

VANGUARD OF THE CORPS—Cadet Capt. Heyward Dantzler and Cadet Sgt. Ashley McElveen, of The Citadel, Charleston's "West Point of the South," arrive Friday night to be on hand for the game at Grant Field today. The cadets, among the first to reach the city, will join with several hundred other Citadel students to give Atlantans their second big military show this month. The cadet corps of VMI staged a downtown parade before their game with Georgia Tech early in October.

Bulldogs-Tide Battle Tops Dixie Grid Classic

The Classic City of Athens will be the scene of Dixie's classiest football attraction today. That could only mean the Georgia's Bulldogs and Alabama's Crimson Tide have again come up to the day when they decide which is the better on the gridiron for the year.

Although both teams have dropped a pair of early season starts, none of the lustre has been lost from this annual "Big" game. Approximately 48,000 fans will converge on Sanford Stadium to watch Harry Gilmer pitch for Alabama and Johnn. Rauch do likewise for the Bulldogs. The game figures to be a close one, although in some quarters Georgia has been favored by a touchdown.

The next most important game involving Southeastern Conference teams will be the Vanderbilt-LSU skirmish under the lights at Baton Rouge. Auburn clashes with Coach Henry Franka's Tulane Greenies at New Orleans in the other all-SEC battle.

In non-conference games, Georgia Tech's undefeated Yellow Jackets meet little Citadel here at Grant Field and unless there is a complete reversal of form, the Jackets should post victory No. 5 on their record. Tennessee tackles Tennessee Tech at Knoxville; Florida entertains Choo Choo Justice and his North Carolina Tarheels at Gainesville; Kentucky's high steeping Wildcats travel to East Lansing, Mich., for a tussle with Michigan State; Mississippi State entertains Harlin-Simmons at Starkville, Miss., and Ole Miss, with Charley Conerly doing the pitching, will engage Arkansas' Razorbacks at Memphis.

Fans, Don't Forget Rain Paraphernalia

Football fans here in Atlanta and in Athens had better take their umbrellas and raincoats to the games today, the Atlanta Weather Forecaster said Friday night. The forecast calls for cloudy, cool, rather windy, with occasional light rains during the day. Sunday will see continued cloudy skies with warmer temperatures, the forecaster said.

Today's temperatures are expected to range from a high of 64 to a low of 58. Friday's readings were: High 71; low 63.

Nulled Laws for City May Get Ends Effected

The City of Atlanta may have authority to continue enforcing at least a part of a mass of local legislation affecting the City passed at the 1946 and 1947 sessions of the Georgia Legislature. This despite a ruling Friday by the State Supreme Court nullifying all local bills passed by those two Assemblies.

City Hall observers Friday said the Mayor and Council "apparently have power to continue in effect many of the things authorized by the 1945 and 1947 General Assemblies despite the high court's adverse ruling."

Spiking the general assumption that the Legislature necessarily largely controls local governments, it was pointed out that city administrations "have grown accustomed to asking the Legislature to do what the Mayor and Council themselves lack the courage to do."

At the same time, however, it was indicated that some of the major bills nullified by Friday's decision could not be enforced without legislative sanction.

This group includes annexation of three small areas to Atlanta and a raise in the salaries of members of Council and the Board of Education.

Immediately after the court's decision became known, attaches of City Atty. Jack Savage's office visited the Capitol to make a copy of the judgment. It required 40 pages of stenographic notes and

Associated Press Wirephoto

WHERE 52 DIED—This is the biggest piece left of a huge flying liner which crashed and burned at Bryce Canyon, Utah. Two infants were among the crash victims.

Craft Plows Into Hill, Near Landing Strip

BRYCE CANYON, Utah, Oct. 24—(AP)—A United Airlines transport plane carrying 52 persons smashed against a sloping hillside here Friday scattering the shattered bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

The four-engined craft, trailing smoke and flames for at least 10 miles before it crashed, virtually disintegrated. A strip of sagebrush over 100 yards long and 50 yards wide was burned.

The four engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area.

The largest piece of the plane was a section of the tail, only 15 or 20 feet long. It was near the forward portion of the burned area.

All the bodies were mangled and burned. Most were unrecognizable.

The transport was en route from Los Angeles to New York City with only one stop—at Chicago—scheduled.

Shortly before the crash the pilot reported by radio that fire had broken out in the plane's baggage compartment. He said he was turning back and would land at the emergency landing field here, adjacent to Bryce Canyon National Park in Southern Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

The craft barely cleared the precipitous wall of a branch of Bryce Canyon. Then it plowed into the sloping, sage-covered hillside, apparently exploded and burned.

The bodies were scattered throughout the burned over area.

Some — unexplainedly — were dropped in the canyon. They too were burned.

Ten miles to the east, at Tropic, a service station operator said he saw the plane burning as it flew over that community.

J. A. Simpson, of Puyallup, Wash., hunting deer in the area east of Tropic, said he saw a fire under the plane's left wing.

After the craft passed he said he saw some object fall from it, and a little farther along he saw something else drop. He said he had no idea what the objects might have been.

O. C. Richerson, Assistant Vice President in Charge of Operations for United Airlines at San Francisco, said he had no theory as to the cause of the fire. He said careful investigation would be made.

The plane carried 47 passengers —including two infants — and a crew of five. First reports said only 50 persons were aboard, but the total did not include the two infants. A dozen or more of the victims were women. The crew included three stewardesses.

Jack Guenther, Managing Editor of Look Magazine, was aboard. The 33-year-old executive was returning to New York City after three weeks on the West Coast.

Another passenger was Clement D. Ryan, President of Whitney's Department Store in San Diego and former President of Montgomery Ward.

Civil Aeronautics Authority employees here were notified of the plane's trouble and prepared for the emergency landing. But the plane dropped out of sight behind a slight rise of land and the CAA men did not see the crash.

"We saw flames and smoke," said one of them, H. A. Sutton, "and rushed to the scene. We couldn't do much with our hand fire extinguishers."

Two attendants at the service station at Tropic, Weldon Lefevre and Robert Middleton, drove quickly to the crash scene.

"When we got there and saw what it was," Lefevre said, "it made us both kind of sick. It was a big plane, or it was until it hit the ground."

The fire was well under control then, he said, adding:

"The sight was terrible. There were pieces of airplane scattered all over the area, which was just

Forest Fire Death Toll 15 As Property Loss Mounts

BAR HARBOR, Maine, Oct. 24—(AP)—Like refugees of war, thousands of persons Friday fled this flame-wasted island colony of millionaire Summer mansions to escape another night of the terror of raiding forest fires which took 15 lives in the nation and burned a loss upwards of $26,000,000 across New England. Maine—with six communities wiped out in addition to this devastated section of Mt. Desert Island, vacation playground of the rich—was still under attack by four firefronts which were out of control.

As the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Red Cross rushed aid by plane, all available local agencies and persons were rallying to help 3,500 evacuees who streamed out of Bar Harbor and other island areas in swiftly-gathered boats like a small-scale Dunkerque.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP) Four Air Force C-47s took off Friday night for Newark, N. J., Army Base to pick up 22 miles of fire hose and fly it to Bangor, Maine, to be used by the Forest Service in combatting forest fires.

Outbreaks of woodland blazes flared elsewhere in the nation, in New York, New Jersey and Michigan and ranged up north of Maine into the Canadian Province of New Brunswick. Closing of woods was ordered in parts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Worn firefighters in the New England bad spots fought through their fifth day counting chiefly on a drop in 20-mile an hour winds as their best aid. Rain still remained only a hope in the six-State area, drought-gripped for 24 days. The Weather Bureau said only a "sprinkle" was due Saturday night.

The hottest areas of Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire took on combat zone appearance. National Guardsmen and Legionnaires joined in aiding families fleeing the blackened and smoke-hung streets of the sudden ghost towns.

Survivors told that the huge flame-bursts flashed down upon them without warning. Others said they saw a lightning shift in the wind spare one house as the flames roared through houses around it.

An evacuation center at Ellsworth estimated 2,500 refugees thronging there from Mt. Desert Island. Winds held during the ATHENS, Oct. 25—University of Georgia students threw their books on the highest closet shelf and skipped classes this week to write welcome all over the town of Athens, for today thousands of the university's alumni will swarm down on their alma mater and the homecoming festivities.

Faternity and sorority house lawns and porches are displaying their most creative and artistic talent, seniors are donning derbies and carrying canes for the big parade at half-time, and coeds are breaking out their newest formals for the IFC dances featuring Elliot Lawrence and his orchestra. Honor societies are tapping and initiating new members, and the Georgia Bulldog 80-piece band is getting ready to make its 1948 debut in the new red, black and white uniforms.

The fraternities and sororities are competing for the Biftad, freshmen honor society, cup which goes to the organization presenting the best decoration.

Must Halt Inflation; Aid Europe Truman Tells U. S. in Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—President Truman called Friday night for "prompt and courageous action" to stop inflation at home and to protect France and Italy against "totalitarian pressures."

He stopped short, however, of saying at this time what measures other than voluntary he will ask of Congress in the special session he has called to meet November 17.

Mr. Truman broadcast to the nation one day after issuing the proclamation which will bring the lawmakers back to Washington a month and a half ahead of their regular session in January.

"When it meets," he said of Congress, "I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high

Food Rationing Again? U. S. Trend Set Forth in Gallup Poll Sunday

With a special session of Congress called for Nov. 17 to deal with feeding hungry Europe, compulsory rationing is considered a possibility.

Would the American people be willing to return to food rationing, as we knew it during the war, in order to help Europe?

Official Washington, including Congressmen who may be asked to vote on this question soon, are pondering the answer.

Dr. George Gallup, who conducts the world-famous Gallup Poll, anticipated the problem and has the answer exclusively for Sunday Constitution readers.

Dr. Gallup's survey, the second of two articles on voters' attitude toward food conservation, will be found on the opposite editorial page in Sunday's Constitution.

Disney Cites Inroads Of Hollywood Reds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(INS)—Walt Disney, the famous screen cartoonist, testified Friday that Hollywood Communists once "took over" his artists and attempted to make Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck hew to the party line.

However, the creator of movie cartoon characters beloved by millions around the world, told the House Un-American Activities Committee that his studio has been purged of Communists and his artists now are 100 percent Americans.

Disney said that although Russia bought his short, "The Three Little Pigs," the Soviet Union rejected Donald Duck, Snow White and other scripts because "they did not suit Russian purposes."

Other highlights of the fifth day of hearings on Communism in Hollywood:

1. Mrs. Lela Rogers, mother of Movie Star Ginger Rogers, declared Communists are more interested in "softening up" America than in gaining numerical strength but they nevertheless have infiltrated "study groups, schools and even small women's clubs." She termed "None But the Lonely Heart" an outstanding example of a Communistic-propaganda film.

2. Oliver Carlson, teacher at the extension service of the University of California, testified that V. J. Jerome and Eli Jacobson were sent to Hollywood by Communist headquarters to win converts in the movie colony. He named a score of Communist workers.

3. Chief Committee Investigator Robert E. Stripling said that Clifford Odets, noted author and playwright, was one of the 79 "prominent" Hollywood personalities whom the Committee is convinced are Communists or party liners.

4. A block of 19 self-styled "unfriendly" witnesses announced they would inject a "large dose" of Hollywood glamour into the hearings by "calling" at least as spectators Lauren Bacall, Humphrey Bogart, Betty Garrett, Gene Kelley, Larry Adler, Ave Gardner and Danny Kaye. They said the glamour group would hold news conferences and give cocktail parties to protest the Committee's procedure.

5. Paul V. McNutt, attorney for the movie industry, charged anew that the hearings "sharply pointed out" that free speech in America was endangered.

Disney, tall and good-looking, was asked if Communists had ever infilterated his studio of 600 employees.

"Yes," the mustached-witness replied, "we had people whom I definitely thought were Communists."

Q. "Was the strike at your studio instituted by Communists?"

A. "It proved itself so. I definitely feel that the Communist people did take over my artists."

The 45-year-old Disney said that he became involved in a dispute with Herbert K. Sorrell, head of the Hollywood Painters' Union, AFL, whom Disney said he considered a Communist. He said Sorrell wanted "to take over my artists."

The cartoonist quoted himself as telling Sorrell that he would have a National Labor Relations Board election. Sorrell, he continued, "laughed at me and said he used the NLRB for his own purposes."

Disney testified that Sorrell added that he had "all the tools and weapons sharpened" for a strike. He said the labor leader told him, "I will smear you and make a dust bowl of your plant."

The witness said that Sorrell shortly thereafter "pulled the strike at my studio" and "Communist-front organizations were the first to smear me."

Asked the names of the front groups, Disney said he had forgotten them because "they change so fast." However, he listed the League of Women Voters, which usually is not considered a "front" group.

PHONE-BOUND FORTSON—Too busy to bring his calendar up to date, harassed Secretary of State Fortson was glued to his phone by calls from legislators, inquiring about the status of local bills passed by the Legislature in the 1946 and 1947 sessions after the State Supreme Court ruled some 350 of them invalid on a technicality.

ASSEMBLY

held in court because they were executed in good faith.

Following the Supreme Court's action, State officials expressed the fear that the decision would void all, or most, local legislation enacted at the 1947 session. Also all bills passed during the 15-day holdover session in 1946 are believed void except those bills prepared by P. T. McCutchen, then Clerk of the House.

Earlier acts are not affected because the State then was operating under the Constitution of 1877.

House Speaker Fred Hand, of Mitchell County, who has sought a special session for several months was reported en route to Atlanta Friday night. It is believed he will seek additional certificates from solons in order to call the Legislature in session.

Hand needs to obtain three-fifths of the total membership of the Legislature for that body to convene itself.

At the last session of the General Assembly, Talmadge and Harris had a narrow margin of control. This control has not been large enough to cause the Legislature to reconvene itself.

Thompson supporters who immediately asked the Acting Governor to reconvene the Legislature were Reps. John Bell Towill and Henry Eve, of Richmond County, and Rep. Wayne Hinson, of Ware County.

News of the high tribunal's action swept over Georgia and inquiries flooded the office of Sec. of State Ben W. Fortson, Jr., where legislation is filed.

Fortson cited this result of a spot check of some but not all local bills passed in the 1946 and 1947 sessions:

1946 House Bills—All local bills checked showed advertising certificates or affidavits copied on the enrolled copy which becomes the Act.

1947 House Bills—All local acts checked did not contain any mention of advertisements.

1947 Senate Bills — Those included in the spot survey contained this statement: "Affidavit of publication is attached to original bill." Fortson, who is not an attorney, said he could not comment whether this statement would be interpreted as meeting constitutional requirements.

A lawyer who asked that his identity not be disclosed said the Senate notation would not suffice, pointing out the 1945 Constitution states the certification or affidavit must be copied.

The Senate notation is not sworn to.

McCutchen, who prepared the House bills in 1946, was defeated in 1947 for Clerk of the House by Joe Boone, of Irwinton. Boone did not mention advertising on the local bills he had enrolled.

Mrs. Henry Nevin is Secretary of the State Senate and was in 1946. She made a notation concerning advertising on her bills, but this is believed insufficient.

Hand, as Speaker of the House, said he considered Boone and Mrs. Nevin absolved of blame. He added he believed each legislator should be held responsible for not seeing his enrolled bill had the proper certification concerning advertisement.

Mrs. Nevin expressed the belief all Senate bills are legal under the Supreme Court ruling because she inserted the notation about the measure being properly advertised.

The specific action invalidated by Friday's action was the issuance of licenses to sell beer and wine in Butts County.

This was a 1946 Senate bill.

Chief Justice Frank Jenkins wrote the majority opinion and then was the lone dissenter. He wrote a dissentins opinion. Jenkins explained this is not unusual procedure of the appellate courts since it was his turn to write the majority decision. This decision spoke for the majority of the Court.

When Jenkins wrote his dissenting opinion, he spoke for himself

The majorty opinion said it was the intention of the framers of the new Constitution to make the advertising an integral part of the act itself and it would be illegal to enroll only part of a bill.

The debate in the Constitutional Committee was quoted as follows:

"Judge Tom Candler: Would it not be better to require the author of the bill to make an affidavit as to publication and to provide that the affidavit become a part of the journal?

"Gov. Arnall, Chairman: If the proof of publication becomes a part of the bill, as this provides, then it would be published in the acts as a part of the law.

"Judge Candler: The affidavit would?

"Gov. Arnall: Yes, it would be a component part of it and therefore would have to be published. Isn't that your understanding Mr. Harris?

"Speaker Roy V. Harris: Yes, sir."

Harris was chairman of the subcommittee and Candler, now a Supreme Court Judge, was serving on a Superior Court.

Senate Pres. Pro Tempore William T. Dean, of Rockdale County, a Thompson leader, disagreed, saying that in his opinion all local bills are valid until attacked, individually, in court. He said he did not consider it necessary at this time to call a special session of the Legislature to re-enact local legislation, observing that by the time the courts ruled on any challenged local bill the General Assembly would be meeting in regular session in January, 1949.

Dean expressed the hope the Supreme Court would grant a rehearing and reconsider its decision.

Herman Talmadge called for an extra session, commenting:

"One-man control of finances in Georgia must cease. Purchases such as Jekyll Island must cease. Funds expended by the State should be appropriated by the General Assembly of Georgia and not made subject to the whims of the Acting Governor.

"The people of Georgia desire a voters' qualification bill. The people of Georgia desire one legal Democratic Primary in 1948.

"The Supreme Court in declaring more than 100 local bills unconstitutional has seriously affected the operation of local governments in Georgia.

"To remedy all of these problems the General Assembly of Georgia should meet in extraordinary session as early as practicable."

Judge Jenkins, in his dissenting opinion, said the Constitution provides two methods of proving that a local bill has been properly advertised. He said one way calls for the certification of a newspaper publisher to be included in the bill.

The other method, he said, requires an affidavit from the author to "accompany" the bill and to be a sworn statement that the measure has been propertly advertised. Jenkins interpreted the word accompany as meaning this affidavit did not become a part of the meassure.

If this had been accepted, proof of advertisement would not have been required as part of the enrolled bill because this document would not necessarily have been part of the bill to begin with but would have been an accompanying document, Jenkins said.

Sen. George Says Russia Too Noisy To Want War

MACON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Russia and the United States might possibly go to war in the near future, but Russia is now making "entirely too much noise" to indicate a real desire for war, Sen. George declared here.

Speaking to the Brotherhood of Tattnall Square Baptist Church Thursday night. Sen. George asserted that America made two mistakes at the end of World War Two.

These he listed as the "economic destruction" of Germany and the belief that America and Russia are heading toward the same objective.

350 Bills Voided By Court Ruling

The Secretary of State's office gave the following figures on local bills: Passed in 1946: 142. Passed in 1947: 303. Those prepared in the House in 1946 were handled correctly. This would make an estimated 350 bills apparently voided by the State Supreme Court.

Dalton, Bremen Cheered By Home Rule Charter

Two cities are unconcerned over the confusion sweeping Georgia following the Supreme Court's ruling invalidating many local bills.

They are Dalton and Bremen.

They have Home Rule.

With their Home Rule Charters, Dalton and Bremen can let their home people speedily repass any local bill which may be invalidated by the court decision. With their Home Rule Charters, Dalton and Bremen do not plan to send any further purely local bills to the General Assembly anyway, because they can do their local legislating at home.

Dalton already has scheduled the first piece of local legislating. It has called an election for Dec. 10 to let the people, and not the Legislature, decide whether Dalton shall have a city manager and shall redistrict the city into wards.

NULLED LAWS

they will not be transcribed until today.

Savage said last night he expected several appeals for a rehearing will be made, and indicated Atlanta would join the expected parade of objecting cities and counties if it is affected seriously. He said it would be some time today before the full import of the ruling could be determined.

The 1945 Legislature extended the City limits modestly out the Piedmond Road area, and the 1947 Assembly extended those further and also took into the municipality land lot 104 comprising Perkerson Park off Sylvan Road. In addition, the 1947 Legislature authorized the raising of the salcil from $1,200 to $1,800 a year cil fro m$1,200 to $1,800 a year and the members of the Board of Education from $50 to $100 monthly.

However, a mass of other legislation regarded as superfluous could be continued in force by the City whether the legislative acts are valid or not, observers said. This includes:

Enforced retirement of persons on general pension rolls when they reach 70 years of age; payment of a $4 yearly increment to those who serve more than 25 years u to 10 years' additional service; increases in the salaries of City Personnel Director Carl T. Sutherland from $4,500 to $6,000 a year; City Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson from $6,000 to $7,000 a year; City Recorders Luke Arnold and A. W. Callaway from $4,200 to $6,000 a year; Building Inspector Marvin Harper from $4,500 to $5,000 a year.

Creation of the position of Deputy Recorder at a salary of $350 a month; raise in the cost of assessments for lateral sewers from $1.50 to $2 per foot; empowering the Chief of the Fire Department to nominate persons for promotion in the Fire Department and setting standards for promotion; providing that governmental employees in areas annexed to Atlanta shall be inducted under the Atlanta civil service; specifically permitting the Mayor to participate in the 27½ percent salary bonus allowed other high-salaried municipal officials and employees and creation of a license bureau in the Police Department.

Other measures passed which the Mayor and Council probably could not effectuate without legislative approval include:

Application of home rule to Atlanta; streamlining of condemnation proceedings to facilitate acquisition of rights-of-way for the proposed $25,000,000 metropolitan traffic improvement program; abolition of the charter-created position of Chief of the Sanitary Department (since adjournment of the Legislature, H. J. Cates, former Chief, has retired on pension, the division has been abolished, and placed under the direction of the City Health Department); authority to invest unexpended amounts from authorized bonds in Government securities; constitutional amendments increasing the amount of revenue certificates which can be issued by the Waterworks Department; establishment of a Metropolitan Planning Commission to affect territory in Fulton and DeKalb Counties; authorizing issuance of revenue certificates jointly by Atlanta and/or Fulton and DeKalb Counties for construction of an athletic stadium; authorizing the levy of a special one-mill tax to be used for capital improvements and to be divided 70 percent for non-school departments and 30 percent for schools.

Acts affecting Atlanta at the 1945 session of the Assembly included passage of a measure forcing the City to pay the prevailing wage scale as salaries to skilled mechanics. This has been a source of irritation between union leaders and other City employes and the Administration has never made them operative, contending the act was class legislation since it affected only a small group of municipal workers.

The 1943 Legislature also made the jobs of City Comptroller B. Graham West, Construction Chief Donaldson, City Atty. Jack C. Savage, and Tax Collector Charles Mathews elective by a majority vote of Council. Previously incumbents had run before the people. Basic salaries of the Chiefs of the Police and Fire Departments also were ordered hiked from $5,000 to $6,000 a year.

Although the 1947 Legislature passed a permissive act for the incorporation of Buckhead and Cascade areas into Atlanta, a referendum provision was included. Voters of the areas declined to vote for annexation and thus these annexation proposals will not be affected.

Stable Tax Program Urged At Chain Store Council Meet

AUGUSTA, Oct. 24—(AP)—Acting Gov. Thompson Friday advocated "a stable, permanent tax program" and a balanced economy between industry and agriculture for Georgia and the Southeastern States as a means of making this section "second to none in the U. S."

Addressing representatives of the Southeastern Chain Store Council at the Sheraton Bon Air Hotel, he cited the vast industrial and agricultural strides made in Georgia in the last 10 years and predicted future advances.

Thompson said Georgia now has 400 different taxes on the books, many of which "cost more to collect than they produce in revenue." He pointed out that a representative, nonpartisan 21-man board will make a complete report on Georgia' taxes "probably after the next primary."

The Governor pointed out that Georgia's industrial population has increased tremendously despite the conversion from war to peace.

Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the University of Georgia School of Agriculture, in an earlier address urged the development of agricultural industry as a means of boosting income, providing additional employment for farmers, and raising the standard of living in rural communities.

Predicting that the United States would "continue to have good business and little unemployment through 1948", Gen. Robert E. Wood, Chairman of the Board of Sears, Roebuck and Company, addressed the group Thursday night.

Although Wood agreed that this country will have a recession, he said that there are a number of factors now present that "will prevent our reaching the depth of 1932".

"I believe we will have good business through 1948 and that this may continue for one, two or three years after that year, although no one can time the letting down of our present business cycle," he said.

HOMECOMING

Rainy weather Friday delayed preparations considerably, but a preview of those in construction indicates a better than ever display.

Tau Epsilon Phi's decorations are keyed to the tune of "Stars Fell on Alabama." Twenty-six stars, each with the name of a Bulldog player, will cascade down on a Crimson Tide player stretched out on an Alabama map. A parody written by Alvin Saul of Atlanta on the song "Stars Fell on Alabama" predicts "the Crimson Tide will turn to water, as the stars fall from dear old U. Ga."

The Alpha Tau Omega display shows the Crimson Tide elephants riding a log which is pushed by one Bulldog into a buzz-saw operated by another Bulldog.

The front page of an "extra" proclaims "Ga. Wrecks 'Bama" at the Alpha Epsilon Pi house. A six-column "picture" shows the Alabama players falling out of a wrecked car as it hits the stone-wall of Georgia's line. A mechanical newsboy shouts "'Bama Badly Beaten by Butts' Bulldogs" and diagnosis high casualties among the Alabama players as "defeatorosis."

At Delta Tau Delta house a circus sideshow feature presents 'Bama—the Wonder Ape, and a mechanical barker invites you in to see the "U. of Ga. spirit make a monkey out of 'Bama." A cage bearing the number of Alabama's passing star, Gilmer, will contain a live monkey borrowed from one of the local businessmen.

Chi Psi's slogan is "When the Midnight Choo-Choo Leaves for Alabama," they'll have Georgia on their minds. Bandaged elephants hang out of the windows of a four-section train with mechanical wheels and honest-to-goodness smoke pouring from its chimney.

"Somebody Else Has Taken My Place" proclaims a triumphant Bulldog as a Crimson Tide elephant cowers in the doghouse at Delta Phi Epsilon sorority house.

At the Chi Omega sorority house the Bulldogs are pushing against the dam that stems the Crimson Tide. The slogan? "Dam the Tide."

Cartoonist Jack Davis, Atlanta, created the mechanical Georgia Bulldog who stretches the neck "like a GI check" of an Alabama player at Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house.

Other decorations were kept carefully under cover until the actual judging Saturday morning. The cup will be presented at the dance tonight.

The Interfraternity Council dances got under way last night with a big formal shindig at Stegeman Hall, with the LFC leadout. On today's program is a concert in the Fine Arts Building in the morning and a semi-formal dance at Stegeman tonight with the GOP leadout.

Sphinx, oldest honor society on the campus, is initiating its four newest members, Robert M. Joiner, Stucky; Dempsey Leach, Conyers; Frank Cheatham, Savannah, and Dan Edwards, Gatesville, Texas. Yesterday they wore business suits with big white "Ss" sewed on the coats. Today they will don tails and top hats and perform a skit at half-time of the game. All day Sunday they will ride in an open horse-drawn carriage through the streets of Athens.

Constitution State News Service.

ROME, Oct. 24—Asserting that teachers cannot live "as human beings" on present salaries, State School Superintendent Dr. M. D. Collins Friday told 2,400 teachers assembled for the seventh district GEA convention here that Georgia must increase its present budget for education by $2,224,000.

Dr. Collins said the present budget of $35,500,000 is insufficient to pay teachers a living wage and declared that Federal aid is necessary.

Bela Lancaster, State GEA President, warned that additional funds for salaries must be provided to obtain teachers capable of preparing the youth of today for the Atomic Age of tomorrow.

Reds Hold Brazilians As 'Break' Hostages

LONDON, Oct. 24—(UP)—Moscow radio announced Friday that Russia is holding Brazilian Ambassador Mateo de Pimental Brandao and his three assistants as hostages to insure the safe departure of Soviet diplomats from Rio de Janeiro.

The broadcast charged that Brazil, which broke relations with Russia Tuesday was encouraging attacks with stones and rotten eggs against Soviet Ambassador Gregory Sokolov, his staff, members of their families and the Soviet Embassy in Rio.

The Moscow announcement did not make clear just what action had been taken against the four Brazilian diplomats. It said only that they had been "taken under surveillance" on orders of the "appropriate Soviet organs."

This action directly affects the American Embassy in Moscow because it now is handling Brazil's diplomatic business in Russia and therefore must act as go-between in the bitter political quarrel between Russia and Brazil.

At the same time Moscow announced that its Ambassador to Washington, Mikolai V. Novikov, had been recalled and replaced by the former Russian Ambassador to China, Alexander S. Panyushkin.

The sudden switch of Ambassadors to America highlighted other Soviet political difficulties—Chile's break in diplomatic relations with Russia, the expectation that Argentina might soon follow, and the recent resignation of Soviet Ambassadors to Mongolia and Afghanistan.

In Rio De Janeiro, a spokesman for the Brazilian foreign office said the Soviet seizure of Brazilian diplomats was a surprise and now was being studied.

The spokesman said that Russia's charge of attacks against the Soviet Embassy did not "correspond to reality" and that Brazil had been trying for some time to arrange the simultaneous departure of respective representatives from the two capitals.

Quoting a Tass dispatch from Montevideo describing conditions in Rio, Moscow said:

"Hooligans constantly are gathering in front of the Soviet Embassy and shouting out rude epithets against the Soviet Union and throwing stones into the Embassy windows."

Trains Crash In London Fog; 31 Die

LONDON, Oct. 24 — (AP) — At least 31 persons died Friday when a suburban electric train jammed with commuters crashed into the rear of another in a dense London fog.

Hospitals reported 63 injured in the crash of the Southern Railway trains near South Croydon station. It was Britian's worst rail disaster in two years.

Railway officials said the leading train, crowded to the doors with standing passengers, was inching its way through the fog when the second struck it from the rear with a splintering crash. The first two coaches of the second strain were telescoped. Their roofs were ripped open and passengers were flung yards away into railway embankments.

Some of the bodies were badly mutilated. At least nine of the dead were women.

Fifty-five ambulances, more than 100 firemen and numerous police rushed to the scene, where rescue workers worked frantically with acetylene torches to extricate trapped and screaming victims. Railway waiting rooms were turned into casualty stations.

Hertwig Named Head of Bibb Textile Firm

Constitution State News Service.

MACON, Oct. 24—Charles C. Hertwig was named President of the Bibb Manufacturing Company Friday at a meeting of the textile firm's Board of Directors, which followed a meeting of stockholders.

Hertwig succeeds W. D. Anderson as head of Bibb. Anderson was elected Chairman of the Company's Board of Directors.

The new Bibb President started with the Company as paymaster in Bibb's No. 1 Mill here in 1920. Later he was named auditor and in 1923 he became Assistant Treasurer. In 1936 he was made Treasurer, and in 1943 he was promoted to the office of Vice President and Treasurer. He took a seat on the Board of Directors in 1944.

Hertwig has lived in Macon all of his life. He was graduated from Mercer University in 1914. In World War I he served as a first lieutenant. His daughter, Louise, is a student at Agnes Scott, Atlanta, and his son, C. C. Hertwig, a junior at Davidson College.

The textile executive was elected President of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association last Summer. He is also Vice President of the Cotton Textile Institute, on the Board of American Cotton Manufacturers, a trustee of Institute of Textile Technology, and President of the Board of Trustees of the Macon First Presbyterian Church.

UNCLE REMUS

Wren's Nest Art Presented

Miss Martha Myers, art student at Christ the King School, Friday presented her original painting of the Wren's Nest's traditional mail-box to the Uncle Remus Memorial Association.

In pastels, the painting depicts two wrens fluttering about the late Joel Chandler Harris' mail-box, after having appropriated it for a nest. Mrs. W. M. Jenkins, President of the Memorial Association and three other Association members, Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, Mrs. J. E. Johnson and Mrs. F. H. Matt, accepted the gift in ceremonies at the Wren's Nest.

Schools Assured Full Allocation

Mayor Hartsfield has agreed to indemnify the Atlanta school system against any loss in selling the school division's $9,000,000 share of the $20,400,000 city bond issue below par.

Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, Friday announced that Hartsfield had assured her and J. Austin Dilbeck and D. F. McClatchey that regardless of the fact that the city took a net loss of $219,381 on the sale of the securities, the school department would get its $9,000,000. If the net loss had been prorated to schools, they would have received $96,086 less than the original allocation.

Several months ago, Ed S. Cook, President of the Board of Education, insisted that the school department be paid its entire allocation, contending that if the school bonds had been sold when the first bonds were marketed last Fall, the schools would have suffered.

Home Rule the Logical Answer

Widespread confusion admittedly will result from the State Supreme Court ruling that a Butts County bill passed by the 1945 Legislature is invalid because it does not contain proof of being properly advertised.

So far as has been determined, not one of the 290 pieces of local legislation passed by the last Legislature does contain this proof. That apparently means that any of them will be declared invalid when and if they are contested.

And contested most of them doubtless will be, too, few local changes having been made anywhere at any time without at least some opposition.

Still, the Supreme Court is the final authority on the matter and there seems no doubt that such certification of publication was intended.

It will be remembered, in this connection, that the new Constitution requires that a local bill be advertised in the community affected for a period of three successive weeks before it is introduced and a copy of the advertisement or an affidavit attesting its publication attached to the measure. This was done to correct a long-standing abuse, namely, the passage of local bills without even the knowledge, much less the consent, of the people affected.

The 290 local bills passed by the last Legislature met this requirement for previous notice. But, due to a misunderstanding on the part of the clerk of the House, neither the advertisement nor the affidavit was attached to the official copies of the measures filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

It is a deplorable omission. But we do not believe it to be of sufficient consequence to warrant calling a special session of the General Assembly again to pass the questionable bills.

Rather do we like Rep. Charlie Gowen's suggestion that cities and counties which want to—and which were not specifically denied the privilege by their power-jealous legislators—should adopt home rule and re-enact the invalid changes.

This would not only save the State the several hundred thousand dollars which an extra session would cost, but it would also allow the persons affected to have a voice in proposed local changes, an opportunity they have previously been denied.

In fact, it may prove all for the best.

The last session of the General Assembly—which cost the taxpayers of Georgia $440,640.17—accomplished little save in the field of local legislation.

Now that this has been adjudged invalid, it becomes increasingly apparent that we got an all-time high in bad bargains.

Since home rule provides a logical, immediate and economical solution, let's not throw good money after bad.

The Citadel Our Guest Today

Georgia Tech's football team plays the eleven from South Carolina's Citadel this afternoon in Atlanta and the crowd will see a drill by a number of cadets from the justly famous military institution.

It is a fine school, with a magnificent history, and it has produced many leaders in varied fields of endeavor.

In a time when all institutions of higher learning are crowded, The Citadel faces an interesting dilemma. The State of South Carolina has just put into operation its new 12-year precollege school term.

This means that next year there will be no high school graduates in South Carolina, according to the interpretation furnished us. Therefore, there should be openings at The Citadel for high school graduates who have not yet selected their school, or who cannot get into colleges because of the crowded conditions. We are not attempting to select a college for any reader, but we do take pleasure in pointing out that The Citadel is a splendid institution, with a great tradition which it has never abandoned. The Atlanta Constitution joins its alumni in welcoming its team here today.

Progress in the United Nations

While the chief political proposals before the United Nations are being misused as an excuse for charge and countercharge among the great nations, it is a source of satisfaction that some of the less glamourous but nonetheless important activities of the body are being expedited in a manner which shows unanimity can prevail on matters where there are no motives of self-interest.

We refer to the action the other day of a 57-nation committee which approved, without dissent, a program for assistting in feeding 3,500,000 needy children in European countries and China.

Even Russia and her satellites concurred. Indeed, it was Dr. Ludwik Rajchman, of Poland, who warned the committee that tuberculosis was rampant in war-devastated countries, and who cited figures showing that infant mortality from lack of milk totals one or two deaths out of ten.

In addition to its present resources of $30,000,000, it is hoped to raise other millions for the Childrens' Fund by a worldwide public subscription campaign next Spring.

And while few will hold illusions that matters of power politics ever can be approached with the same unanimity of opinion as prevails on humanitarian measures, it is well, we think, to call attention to such accomplishments as an indication that while the UN may be virtually impotent on certain matters, all progress has not been blocked.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

Fairs Are Wrong

Editor Constitution: I noted with approval your editorial of Oct. 16, entitled "Proper Action by the City Schools."

I personally feel that "Fairs," as generally conducted, and especially as our Southeastern Fair has been conducted for many years, are absolutely wrong and contain much more harmful than educational or beneficial things.

Therefore, until and unless these fairs can be reorganized on the basis of exhibits that will be educational and instructive, and until the gambling devices and other harmful things are eliminated, the fair should be discontinued.

It may be impossible to get the fair reorganized on the basis of educational and beneficial services, but certainly until this is done I feel that the newspapers should feel that they are performing a real service and carrying out their duty to the public as a whole and performing the highest civic service in exposing the harmful features of the fair.

In the meanwhile, I cannot see how the children of the City and County schools can be encouraged to attend these so-called "fairs."

F. GRAHAM WILLIAMS.

Fine Department

Editor Constitution: Your editorial regarding Health Department should give all honest men encouragement. Hope you will continue to give facts front page and help prevent the State from receiving the last and only efficient department into the football fold. Accurate Coverage

Editor Constitution: I should like to express my great appreciation for the splendid coverage which The Atlanta Constitution gave the Synod of the Province of Sewanee when it met at St. Luke's Church.

Not only was the coverage adequate, but the different items of news were presented with rare discrimination so that the different events of the Synod were covered in the papers in terms of their respective importance.

I especially appreciate the hard work of Miss Katherine Barnwell in covering this assignment and the fine grasp she acquired of what was taking place.

J. MILTON RICHARDSON,

Salesmanship

Editor Constitution: I would appreciate being informed if the reading public will have to listen to, and see in every paper they pick up from now until the next election

"Herman says this," Cravey says that," Hands says this."

The first essential of selling anything, be it a desk, safe, mowing machine or a personal service is DON'T TALK TOO MUCH—Don't talk the prospect to death before he can sign the order.

One other item for the political boys—if anyone is going to make a mistake—let them make it but don't holler wolf too soon.

God save the Union — and Georgia. J. E. MALONE.
Columbus.

One Better

Editor Constitution: I could go Petrillo one better. If I were the musicians' czar I'd immediately ban all radio programs involving union musicians — millions of people can hear each broadcast.

Just think what that means! What with millions of folks listening to their radios, and with only 24 hours in each day, and with a limited number of programs, etc., there must be hundreds of thousands of musicians out of work.

Why should people pay to hear music when so much of it is free? My heart bleeds and bleeds for the starving musicians.

Better Treatment

Editor Constitution: At a barbecue in honor of Acting Gov. Thompson, near Gainesville, he is quoted as saying: "In less than three years I hope to have every single inmate of the Milledgeville State Hospital in a modern hospital building."

The money that Acting Gov. Thompson is spending there for new buildings, and that he plans to build, should be used to pay psychiatrists to treat these patients and get them well so that they can return to their homes instead of spending a lifetime in the State Hospital.

Most of these inmates are not accustomed to fine homes and so much grandeur. They are placed in the hospital for mental treatment, but do they get any? No.

Let's hope the planks in his platform in the 1948 gubernatorial campaign will not be for more modern buildings, but for better medical treatment and more kindness for the insane.

In Love With an Elephant

The circus is coming to our town, and I remember—

How good it was to go out on the town when the show was done; driving out to the big home of some man who was sorry he hadn't observed that impulse, as a boy, to run away with the circus. . . .

There would be sandwiches and platters of cold cuts and the home brew of that period of the noble experiment. Some of the performers, clowns and the wire acts, would be there, looking very plain and unreal after their dazzling appearance in the big tent where their spangles and the lights and the enchantment and spell of continuous movement made that seem their real world and their reality.

We would stand around and laugh and the Big Man and his wife and friends would beam and have fun as their own world, with the children upstairs asleep, was shattered to bits and, for the moment, made to glitter and wear spangles. These were the clowns and these were those magnificent figures who somersaulted through the air to catch hands on the swung bar high in the air as the crowd gasped and the drums rolled—these were the same, here in their house, eating their food and laughing and talking. These were the very ones. There was a high excitement and they could hardly wait until morning when she could telephone and tell about it and he could say, at the office, "You know, we had some of the circus people out at the house last night—" and see the eyes of his listeners widen with interest.

Train So, we would stand around and eat and talk and now and then someone would call the train dispatcher's office and see what hour was being set for the departure of the train. And at last, of course, we would have to go and we would go out and pile into cars and taxis and drive—not to the station—but to the siding where the long circus train waited. It smelled of elephants and animals and the ammonia smell of manure. It smelled of paint and of gassy smoke as the engine waited to pull us out, its smokestack laying a pall of smoke about us, save on the cold, windy nights when the wind whipped away all smells.

Climbing aboard we would walk through the darkened cars. I yet can see and smell the cars where the wire acts and the performers in muscle acts slept. The car would be hung with the sweaty costumes and there would be a smell of liniment and rubbing alcohol like that of a football training room.

Life We would always head for the "Privilege Car," where there were tables for food or cards. There would be some groups eating soup or chili or sandwiches. And some would be playing cards.

Later, in the berth, with the the train rolling and the whistles hooting in the night, flinging its hoarse challenge across the countryside, it seemed there was no life quite so fine. You would be thinking this when sleep came.

The circus motto is "Another day, another town," and there was always the thrill of the next day. One would wake and peer out at the strange siding, seeing the tents up, and hearing the sounds of the circus going up.

Later, the word would be passed that the flag was up on the cook tent and soon the yawning, sleepy-eyed circus personnel would be seen walking to the tent where the flag flew, indicating the meal was ready.

"Ena" My special friend was an elephant named "Ena." She got to know me, because I splurged on Ena, buying apples and bananas and peanuts for her until she would sway and trumpet when she saw me coming. She learned to go into my side coat pockets and extract therefrom bags of peanuts or bananas. I don't know if elephants never forget, or not. But I do know that a year after I left that circus I walked to the line of bulls where Ena was and stood before her. She did not trumpet, but she looked at me steadily for a moment and then her trunk came out found and extracted the bags of peanuts from my pockets. And then she rocked and swayed and felt again my pockets and I went up and put my arm around her neck and whispered to her, as I had before, that she was the queen of elephants, indeed, the greatest of all elephants. And, of course, I purchased more apples and peanuts. I loved Ena very much. I have an affection for all elephants and, if I could afford it, I would have an elephant around my house, as persons do a dog.

I remember yet the preparations for the "walk-around," the hurry and bustle, the cue notes from the band. There is nothing quite like a circus, which is neither a new nor very entertaining phrase, but still a true one. And they have elephants.

Psychiatry Current Fad of Fictioneers

Fashions in fiction seem to change about as frequently as in woman's apparel. Just at present, psychiatry seems to be all the rage of the plot-makers, especially in that literary field encompassed in the generic term, whodunits.

Now, I have read some portions of that psychiatric authority, Freud. Also Krafft-Ebing. But that was a long time ago and my reading was but cursory, anyway. I am slightly familiar with some of the psychiatric terms, or patter, 'most all of us know. I have talked a number of times, in the course of a reporter's job, with professional psychiatrists. But I'll admit no more than ignorance of the subject.

That is, I would admit no more than ignorance, if I had not read a number of these recent whodunits in which the central character is a psychiatrist. A doctor of the mind who evolves into a detective type because of the exigencies of plot.

And I have learned something of the profession, at least as it is represented in said books. Probably a real psychiatrist would laugh and say the books are all wrong, misleading and utterly untrue to life.

Expensive? However, I have gathered from these volumes that treatment by a psychiatrist is very expensive. They all indicate that such a doctor of the mind will accept only a very limited number of patients. That a treatment requires at least an hour and therefore the doctor can't take more than a very limited number of patients per day. Naturally, then, his fees have to be high.

Furthermore, the treatment is said to be lengthy. You can't go to a mind doctor and be cured of your mental ills in one treatment. He has to gain your complete confidence. He has to listen as you dredge up a long list of memories out of your subconscious. He has to turn the troublesome emotions into the proper channels, remove your secret fears and shames and get rid of a lot of inhibitions which are beclouding your way of life.

And all this takes time. You have to spend many treatment hours in his office. Maybe several times a week for months on end, before a final cure can be claimed.

If you are paying, as is quite likely according to my whodunit sources of information, around $20 an hour, this soon runs up into big money.

You see the inevitable conclusion, that psychiatric treatment is possible only for the financially well to do.

Is This Fair? It is my contention, on the other hand, that speaking in general terms, it is the lower-income ones among us who are, usually, in greater need of a mental doctor.

Most mental ills arise out of the things we call inhibitions. The failure to follow impulses and the resultant condition of mental indigestion because of all these blocked and unrealized desires.

Now, rich folks can, usually, obey their impulses, satisfy their desires. At least, the money problem, or rather the lack-of-money problem, doesn't stand in the way. It is the poor folks who can't obey that impulse, simply and solely because they can't afford it. And the unsatisfied desire festers and rankles in their mind and ultimately digs down into the subconscious, causing all manner of undesirable after effects.

The only recourse for the unfortunately poverty-stricken is to, in the end, go quite comfortably insane and add one more client to the already overcrowded public sanitariums for the mentally ill.

Of course, the ultra-rich crowd are apt to discover mental sicknesses peculiarly indigenous to excessive wealth. But there is no need to feel too much pity for such as these. Generally a modicum of self-denial would effect a cure for them and, if that failed, they can always dig up whatever fees a good psychiatrist may charge.

The ones I'm sorry for are those with cankering sores on the old subconscious, with inhibition-induced mental constipation, who cannot afford the attentions of a mind doctor.

Maybe there are psychiatrists who are within financial reach of the average, or can't-make-ends-meet class. But not according to my whodunit authorities.

ALTAR STAIRS — By John Marvin Rast

Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things where are before.—Philippians 3:13.

Martin F. Tupper has a phrase, "The harvest of thy yesterday, the seed corn of thy tomorrow!" True as it is, it is not the whole truth. Some have been good, some bad. The difference between our lives and a planter shut up to using the seed corn of his harvest is that we may elect to use that which is good out of the past, and we can draw upon vast stores of current good. By yielding our spirits to all that is true, honorable, just, pure, beautiful we can actually subdue and eradicate that which once debased and shamed us.

Natural Athletes

The world's best athletes are tall, slender colored people who live in the Belgian Congo. A book by a Belgian explorer contains a photograph which reveals their skill as high jumpers.

Two six-foot white men, standing ten feet apart, held a stick at arm's length above their heads. One after another the young natives trotted forward and sailed over it as easily as a greyhound clears a three-foot fence.

If Belgium should use these young fellows in the Olympics, other athletes would seem pathetic by comparison.

(It may not be significant, but the diet of these people consists almost wholly of dairy products. Their wealth is in cattle).

WHEN the Johnsons were making pictures in Africa, they made friends with another tribe whose members have a different capacity that is typical of their race.

Sitting near their camp fire after nightfall, the Johnsons often entertained themselves by playing their small phonograph. The natives would squat in a circle, just beyond the light of the fire.

They enjoyed semi-classical music in silence; it was mystery and magic. But the first jazz record excited and entranced them. It was right down their alley. They caught the rhythm of it almost immediately, and soon all of them, men, women and children, were swaying in unision and clapping their hands or beating with sticks in perfect time with the music. They didn't miss a hot lick.

Civilization dulls our senses and robs us of capacities our race once possessed. The closer people are to nature the better animals they are. And animals that depend upon fleetness of foot or quick movement have a natural sense of timing which require a sense of rhythm.

A FEW years ago, Jack Dempsey was said to be the most graceful of ballroom dancers. His grace was a product of the muscular strength built by years of shadow boxing and jumping the rope. Long practice had given him a highly developed sense of rhythm and timing.

These things are essential to the athlete.

Negroes are born with these capacities and advantages. They have become top ranking boxers, runners, football players. One has reached the top in baseball.

If they are admitted to all sports, and physically fit white youngsters continue to lose interest in such competition, the time will soon come when all athletic champions will be Negroes.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

HOME RULE

(Adel News)

Dalton and Bremen have both voted for home rule of their cities. The last Legislature gave the people partial home rule for which many people have clamored for years without success. The Legislature has had the matter before that body for many years, but always the legislators have withheld the right from the people. Now they have that right in a somewhat limited way. But every County and every municipality should have the opportunity to settle matters that affect only the people of a County or a city or village without the Legislature having any right to settle matters of a purely local nature. If the law has not been entirely perfected it should be and men and women of the places affected only that all can vote whose interests are the same and let it go at that have a right to say so. Let us hope that the law be so fixed for all time.

Good-Will With Them Is a One-Way Street

Premier Stalin last week told a delegation of visiting members of Parliament that Russia has every desire to co-operate with the Western powers.

But, apparently, not a single method of showing it.

If the official Russian policy is indeed one of friendship, then the Kremlin had better call all its representatives in for a re-briefing. They've sure got their signals crossed.

Stalin may not know it, but he has fewer friends than the man in the soap ads.

The way his representatives have been acting, Dale Carnegie's got nothing to worry about.

Yessir, the blarney is that of Stalin but the veto is that of Vishinsky.

Actions speak louder than words and, in the case of the Russian co-operation, the silence is something less than deafening.

Blow-Up When Congress Convenes?

WASHINGTON—Everything is pointing to a blow-up in the coming session of Congress over the high-price situation.

The explosion may come in the special session, or again it may be delayed until the regular meeting date in January. But come it will. That may be marked down as a certainty.

Republicans, feeling themselves on the defensive, are already girding for the battle. Since adjournment of the last session in July, a joint congressional committee has been making an extensive survey of the situation. Hearings have been held in a number of cities in the Atlantic States, the Middle West and the West.

Blame It is a safe bet that when a report is filed the committee will seek to lay the blame for high prices on the Truman administration. The President will be charged with a do-nothing policy and with having no firm program for bringing prices down.

In that way the Republicans will seek to shift responsibility for the high-price structure to other shoulders. It will be an echo of the charge by Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, that Mr. Truman brought on the upward spiral of prices by abandoning Government price controls too soon, a charge he expanded on quite considerably during his recent Western speaking tour.

What concerns the Republicans about it all is the fact that a Presidential election year lies ahead and events are shaping up for the price situation to become the leading domestic issue of the campaign. It is a condition that is causing increasing alarm among GOP party leaders.

Double-Header But the explosion that seems sure to come will not be a one-way affair, by any means. Democrats are doing a bit of girding on their own account. We may expect the air to be filled with charges and counter-charges as to who is to blame for the price structure getting out of control.

President Truman, for his part, is working on a program to meet the situation. He has a committee at work on the whole problem. By the time Congress meets he is expected to have some constructive proposal ready to offer.

It remains to be seen which of the programs—that offered by the White House or the one to come from the congressional committee—will have more popular appeal. The price issue itself will be fanned by the debates on the subject.

Action What Congress does to meet the problem will likely be a determining factor in the proportions the issue assumes in the next election. On that score the Republicans will be somewhat at a disadvantage because the responsibility for putting through legislation will be theirs, since they are in control of both branches of Congress.

Also, the Democrats are in position to put them on the spot, if conditions fail to improve, by offering legislation to restore price controls on key commodities. All of the talk of Sen. Taft and others to the contrary notwithstanding, the Republicans must bear the responsibility for wrecking OPA.

They are just whistling in the dark when they try to shift the blame to President Truman. The country well knows who is at fault there and no amount of humbuggery can becloud the issue.

Phony All of us know that this was phony talk, pure and simple. It just did not work out that way, as leading Government economists warned at the time.

On one point the administration is vulnerable. There will be need to take corrective measures on this or growing resentment may arise. That concerns the grain export program and the prices the Government pays for grains.

It is the purchase of surplus grain for export that is largely responsible for the tremendous uplift in grain prices. Since these purchases are made by the Government, it should be within the power of the administration to force prices down simply by announcing that no further lots of grain would be bought for export beyond a certain price, say, the parity price on such commodities.

That would throw the gamblers and speculators on the grain exchanges into a tailspin. It could be made effective because the Government still maintains export controls.

Who Has The Answer?

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series.)

This final column discussing the proposed consolidation of the Soil Conservation Service with the Extension Service is intended as an examination of the hazards involved in attempting the change and as a glance at the results, should the proposal become law. I have been a friend and advocate of the Extension Service for more than 20 years and have been equally active in behalf of the Soil Conservation Service and the Farm Bureau Federation ever since these organizations came to Georgia. I cannot bring myself to take sides against any one of them.

Here are some of the questions I put to myself in the midst of my dilemma: "What happens to the Soil Conservation Service if the consolidation is brought about?" The answer is that many of the professional conservationists will be transferred, or displaced, or discharged.

MEN SUCH as Dr. Bennett, the spark plug of soil saving activities of the nation for 30 years past, will be placed under the direction of others. Men like Kudzu Bailey (S. C. S. Agronomist for the Southeast) who sold the virtues of Kudzu to the whole scientific world, would begin over in a new agency, if at all. Men such as Bert Hendrickson of the Regional Experiment Station at Watkinsville, who has dredged up more practical answers to Georgia's soil and water problem, than all of the rest of us put together, would be moved about and probably have his energies and abilities chilled and stultified.

What happens to the Extension Service? It will be brought under the white light of criticism on a national scale at a time when its friends in Congress are in the minority. The focusing of attention on the subject of federal aid to farmers at this time could result in harm to all Federal farm services and to the farmers. If nothing of this sort happens, Extension Service is given another job to do.

What happens to the Georgia Farm Bureau? The forcing of its friends in Congress to take sides against other Georgians is not calculated to be helpful to the Bureau. There is possible danger that the Bureau will be weakened in Georgia by an internal struggle occasioned by this proposed consolidation. (Congressman Lanham expressed this fear at the Macon meeting.)

WHAT HAPPENS if the effort is dropped, so far as Georgia is concerned? We will go along as before.

Suppose a Republican Congress abolishes soil saving activities altogether, including "Triple A" payments? There is no assurance that this will not be done in any event and if we are divided, they may go further.

Which is most hazardous; to leave matters as they now stand or to join with the Farm Bureau in its effort to consolidate S. C. S. with Extension Service?

THOMAS L. STOKES

Look for Anti-Red Movies

WASHINGTON—For your program notes—if you're a movie fan—you may be looking forward to a wave of what members of the House un-American Activities Committee call "anti-Communist" pictures.

At least that seems to be the hope of the Committee in its current investigation, judging from daily emphasis on this point.

The routine is intriguing to watch for the way it avoids the common principles of logic, or cause and effect. It has been developed in the first week of the Committee's investigation into alleged Communistic influences in Hollywood through witnesses friendly to the Committe's purpose and called to advance its thesis.

Nearly every witness, producer, writer or actor, is asked whether he doesn't think there should be "anti-Communist" pictures. The invariable answer to that is that there should be. But, some Committee member asks in a hushed voice full of challenge, don't you think the Communists would try to stop such pictures? Well, maybe they wouldn't like them, but that won't stop them.

INTERESTING, and perhaps significant, is the routine that precedes this. Nearly every witness is asked by someone on the Committee if he believes this investigation is for censorship of the movies, as some people are saying. Oh, no. Then, sometime or other during his appearance, either from a question or by raising the subject himself, there is discussion about the main purpose of moving pictures.

It is agreed that they are for entertainment, and that they are not the place for "political" subjects. Then follows later the question about "anti-Communist" movies and the agreement there should be some of those. Nobody ever seems to classify these as "political," which they would seem to be, nor to go back to the matter of "censorship," that is, whether the Committee should tell the industry what kind of pictures it ought to make or not make.

Some producers timorously took the defensive at the outset by explaining that they had made "anti-Communist" pictures before the war and before we beame allies of Russia, naming two that "kidded" the Communistic philosophy. But, comes the question, it's been a long time since there were any "anti-Communist" pictures, hasn't it? Yes—but they are making one now from a best-selling novel. And there'll be more.

It was the hardly veiled intention to tell Hollywood what sort of pictures it should make that finally provoked the exasperated Paul V. McNutt, counsel for the Motion Picture Association and the Association of Motion Picture Producers, to protest that the Committee was trying to censor moving pictures.

There have been "political" pictures and there normally should be more, whether treating of Communism or other subjects here at home. The movie industry knows full well, too, that they can be box-office successes only if they are entertaining.

The whole tenor of the proceedings here, with the emphasis against "political" pictures and the stress on "anti-Communist" pictures, suggests that perhaps the target of the Committee is pictures dealing with controversial social, economic and political problems in the American scene that may be critical of powerful vested interests, and thus "un-American" in the Committee's eyes. Mr. McNutt at least seemed to suspect something of the sort when he said:

"THE MOTION picture industry cannot be a free medium of expression if it must live in fear of the damning epithet 'un-American' whenever it elects to introduce a new idea, produce a picture critical of the status quo, or point up through a picture some phase of our way of life which needs improving."

There he went to the heart of the matter. He said something else for all of us to think about, too, when he asked:

"If the motion picture industry can be called before a Committee and challenged on the content of the screen, then why not the newspaper, radio, magazine and book publishing business?"

BUGS BAER

Seems a little late for Byrnes to describe that Yalta Conference. I mean the mill will never grind with the eggs that have been scrambled.

Jim's book came out about the same time as Winnie Churchill's speech on Russia. Winnie doesn't give Stalin a loophole to stand on.

Winnie rips the English commies to stuffings and gives the American fellow-travelers the back of his hand. And he agrees with me that the Lake Success Conference is an insane asylum with a show window.

Right now Winnie is enjoying a well-oiled retirement. But every time the old fire-hoss smells smoke he can tell whether it is carelessness or arson.

Educating Congressmen

TRIESTE—The wanderers are going home already. Athens a day or so ago expected only one more congressional visitation. At Rome, after a long Summer of grueling waits for lawmakers at air fields, rounds of official appointments and indoctrination lectures, the embassy was visibly beginning to revive. Here in Trieste at the moment, Rep. John Lodge was the last, lingering specimen of this new kind of annual migration, which has filled all Europe with the bustle of its movement as the passenger pigeons once filled Kansas with the sound of their wings.

The results cannot be gauged by the guarded public statements of the returning Senators and Representatives, although it was encouraging to discover from the Greek press that Rep. John Taber had learned all about Stalin. (The next thing you know, someone will tell him about the birds, bees and flowers.) At a guess, in fact, the test of the special session will show that the results of the Congressional mass migration to Europe have been better than the public statements would indicate.

THE PROCESS of collision between members of our Congress and the grim facts of our time has been, to be serious about it, extremely reassuring to watch. The gooseflesh-raising horrors of the Congressional junkets of the past have not once recurred, although more than 200 members, many of them not averse to pleasure and the bottle, have been loose in Europe this Summer.

Without exception, the Senators and Representatives have shown a new sobriety in both senses of the word, and above all, a desire to learn everything that could be learned. Most of them went through schedules that would have finished men and women not habituated to the grind of campaign trips.

The reactions were so standardized that they can be catalogued rather easily. The relatively small number of members who had already grasped the real nature of the American role in the world despite the distance of the world problem from our shoes found in contact with the facts new strength and new reassurance. They will be pretty hard to intimidate or argue with when the special session convenes.

FAR MORE significant, the large decisive group of middle-of-the road members were visibly and deeply affected. These were the men who had gone along part way, or had gone along reluctantly, with a constructive American foreign policy. They had feared the political consequences. They had often managed to delude themselves as to the meaning of the facts abroad. With the facts plainly set out before their eyes, they found self-delusion impossible. With evident reluctance, yet surely and rather completely, they moved over to transform the minority of active interventionists into an effective majority.

Equally meaningful, however, was the reaction of the confirmed isolationists. Only one or two of them were open to reason or conviction. They continued to repeat their familiar slogans. Yet they could not wholly brush the facts aside. And thus these men, who have done everything in their power to obstruct measures to prevent war, were suddenly heard saying, all over Europe, that "We might as well have another war and get it over with."

Nothing could better illuminate the degree of willful blindness, of sheer inability to think, which characterizes their position. You would suppose that any sensible man would prefer to spend a few billions on a stable peace, rather than talk complacently about another war which will certainly cost hundreds of billions and may, quite probably, result in the collapse of Western civilization. Yet the beginning of the conversion of these men into a preventive war party was quite evident.

ON THE unfavorable side, one more item of evidence must also be mentioned. As the homecoming statement of Representative Christian A. Herter plainly discloses, even the best-intentioned members of Congress have adopted a sort of political double standard. Under the Victorian double standard, all women were required to be as pure as the driven snow, while the male sex was permitted to frequent saloons and even burlesque shows.

Under the new double standard, all European politicians must be willing, at the drop of a hat, to subject their people to the most Draconian measure, while American politicians continue to behave like American politicians. This is silly and dangerous.

None the less, the experiment seems to have proved itself. No doubt it will be repeated again next year. It is to be hoped that it will. But next year, it might be well for ambassadors to be relieved of the task of meeting members of Congress at the plane, which must this Summer have taken a third of the time of every American chief of mission in Europe. This is going too far even in the education of Congressmen.

OLLIE REEVES

"Even the more optimistic members of Congress have become alarmed at the continuing upward spiral in wages and prices."—Financial column excerpt.

Why should we fear some trouble's near with things so bright and sunny,
When every Joe you meet, or know, is ready with the money,
When rosy dreams and wild-eyed schemes inveigle folks to spending—
It will be long before the song of happy days is ending.

It's strange but true that we live through the lean or fruitful seasons—
When things go well we do not dwell too much upon the reasons,
But if they're bad it makes us mad we did not heed the warning
And realize today's blue skies may cloud up in the morning.

But, nonetheless, we rather guess this isn't worth repeating—
We can't be taught until we're caught and take another beating,
Until great mobs are seeking jobs, ill-fed, in farments shoddy,
Or, like as not, "X" marks the spot where someone found the body.

HAROLD L. ICKES

We Need the Voice of America

It does not tax my incredulity too greatly to envision the confident tribe of American publicity men and propagandists in the future role of saviours of democracy. Far stranger things have happened in the annals of the world. Honking geese are reported once to have saved Rome from being sacked. (Fortunately for the imperial city it had no poultryless Thursdays).

An immortal girl in shining armor saved France at the time of Charles VII. Hitler rose to the heights of black infamy by the simple process of attributing to the rest of the world the aspects and characteristics of the devil. So, there is no reason that I can see why this country's propagandists cannot be the heroes of tomorrow.

Since the dawn of civilization men have fought almost continuously both with the sword and the pen. Long ago Confucius, and later Christ, proved that the pen has by far the greater impact. In the struggle between democracy and communism that is now upon us, words again may spell the difference between a new and greater civilization and a plunge without warning into the abyss that was the Dark Ages.

New Machine The United States emphatically wishes to avoid trouble with Russia. It wants above everything else to prevent such a contingency. The question is, how can this be done? As a result of the recent nine-nation Communist Party meeting in Poland, Russia is obviously building a new and greater propaganda machine. It is not impossible that a Fourth Internationale may emerge from it.

In the face of what may well be a mortal threat to our democratic way of life, the United States has done virtually nothing to increase the world's knowledge of this country and its way of life. Congress first drastically cut the appropriations for the cultural relations and international information program of the State Department. Then it belatedly changed its mind and grudgingly provided some additional money.

Congress is and always has been righteously indignant about any propaganda that it does not put out itself. It has consistently attempted to render government departments inarticulate, with the obvious object of censoring what information the public receives. There are hundreds of information men on government pay rolls who could, if left undeterred by congressional threats, do a real job of keeping the taxpayers conversant with what government is doing day by day. The people are entitled to this information. It should be made available, not only for domestic consumption, but for broadcasting to the world, including Russia, via the radio, newspapers, movies, and through magazine articles.

Our Faults Our way of life in America is not perfect by any manner of means. Our democracy has serious faults, including discrimination against minority groups, political demagoguery, and the nefarious practice of stuffing ballot boxes in elections. Our business methods are ruthless. We have graft in and out of government, and we make innumerable mistakes. Nevertheless, the way that we live is still far and away the best in the world. Is there any better way of combatting communism and defending democracy than to demonstrate how satisfactorily democracy works, thus showing the world how superior it is? I have thought long and hard on this question, and I cannot conceive of a better.

If we are going to bring the world over on our side in this struggle of ideologies, we must somehow make the people of Europe, including the Russians, visualize our American freedom, prosperity and happiness, thus permitting them to contrast conditions here with those in Russia and its Communist satellites. If we would do this, the cause would be practically won. Even the Russians themselves would begin to see the light.

Envy Of course, at first, some Europeans would be envious of our homes, our cars, our industrial machines, our leisure, and our standard of living. They might point a scornful finger at our admitted deficiencies, but in the end they could scarcely avoid being stirred to admiration and emulation. They would not longer be satisfied with a lower standard of living under the searching eyes of a police state.

Beneath the battered fedoras of our public relations and publicity men are the best brains in the world for propagandizing. Americans proved what could be done with information and educational material during the late war. They have the publicity media, and they have the knowledge of techniques at their finger tips. From my point of view they have the greatest story in all recorded history with which to impress the world, if a "penny-wise, pound-foolish" Congress would provide the necessary dollars to permit telling.

It is difficult to hate people whom we know and with whom we have fraternized. This holds true for Russians as well as for Americans.

U. S. On Top, French Believe

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J.—In the political struggle between the United States and Russia, the people of France think the United States is on top at the moment.

France, herself caught in the struggle between East and West, her own political make-up, part Communist, part conservative, is in a unique position to observe and appraise the running diplomatic battle between Washington and Moscow. In French eyes, we're doing all right.

That's shown by a poll conducted throughout France by the French Institute of Public Opinion, affiliate of the American Institute and a member of the 11-nation International Association of Public Opinion (Gallup) Institutes.

"In your opinion, does the United States or Russia have the advantage in the struggle for influence on an international scale?"

As for the future of France itself, most Frenchmen are pretty gloomy. They think things are going to get a lot worse for France before they get any better.

Only one Frenchman in 25 thinks things are progressing well in France today, whereas 93 percent say conditions are bad.

The politakers asked:

"Do you think things are going well or badly in France today?"

ATHENS, Oct. 24—The holiday atmosphere of Homecoming prevailed as thousands of football fans began pouring into town tonight for Saturday's traditional Georgia-Alabama game.

Despite the weatherman's prediction for a cloudy day with scattered light showers, 48,000 fans are expected to jam Sanford Stadium for the kickoff at 2:30 o'clock.

Prospects for a wet ball also failed to dampen the fans' enthusiasm for an expected aerial duel between Georgia's Johnny Rauch and Alabama's Harry Gilmer, two of the best passers in the country.

Conversation on the eve of the battle was centered around the possibility of Georgia repeating its 1946 performance of preventing Gilmer from completing a single pass and the general consensus was that the Bulldog secondary defense would have to show at least 100 percent improvement to even come close.

Both clubs have lost two games this season, but judging from the interest the game has created, they might be playing for the World's championship.

A victory for Georgia would send the Bulldogs into their November schedule with only one Conference defeat and still a chance to grab part of the Southeastern Conference title and a Bowl bid on New Year's Day.

On the other hand, both Alabama's defeats have been at the hands of SEC foes and therefore, the Tide doesn't have much chance to share the championship. However, a victory over the Bulldogs would still leave the Red Elephants of Red Drew in the post-season picture.

In other words, the team that loses may as well forget whatever hopes it might have had of taking a Jan. 1 trip.

Both Coaches Wally Butts and Red Drew were pessimistic about their chances of winning the game. However, Georgia remains a touchdown favorite, figuring to have the best of it up front in the line where games are usually won or lost.

Georgia is in a somewhat battered and bruised condition following four straight tough ones. Included on the list of injured are Tackle Jack Bush, End Weyman Sellers and Backs Jim Gatewood, Buck Bradberry and Lukie Brunson. However, all are expected to see action.

For the first time in many years, prospects for a wet ball favor the Bulldogs instead of their opponents. The Georgia pass defense has been lacking most of the season and its running game is considered superior to that of Alabama.

One of the prospective features of the game is great end play. Four of the finest flankmen in the conference will be in action on the same field, Georgia's Captain Dan Edwards and Alabama's Rebel Steiner and Jim Cain.

In history of the series, Alabama has won 15 games, Georgia 14 and three have ended in ties.

PaytonDies From Auto Injuries

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—(AP)—George Payton, 24, Virginia State Open golf champion, died Friday of a "severe brain injury," and fracture of the left thigh suffered in an automobile accident Oct. 9.

Hospital attendants said he had not regained consciousness since automobile in which he was riding with four other men struck a railroad viaduct abutment on Chicago's West Side.

Dr. Sherman Allred, staff physician at Presbyterian Hospital, said the golfer's condition had been so critical during the hospitalization that complete diagnosis of his injuries was impossible.

Payton, whose home was in Newport News, Va., was riding with Ralph Guldahl, Chicago golf professional; Edward Wooley, 47, of Oak Park, Ill., sporting goods manufacturer; Ben Kapp, Chicago, sporting goods buyer, and Reginald Speakman, 45, Miami, Fla., sporting goods buyer, all of whom escaped serious injury.

Wooley, driver of the car, told officers it went out of control and crashed into the abutment as he attempted to pass a truck.

A scheduled golf benefit exhibition match involving Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, British Women's champion, and Lew Worsham, National Open titlist, for George Payton at Virginia Beach, Va., Saturday will be played despite the death of the 24-year-old Virginia State Open crown-holder.

Mrs. Zaharias and Worsham will appear in the exhibition match with two Virginia amateur stars, Walter Hagen, Jr., and State Champion Jack Hamilton.

Originally, Payton had agreed to play in the exhibition. Then, when the Hampton, Va., professional ace was injured in the automobile accident, it was decided to hold the match as a benefit for him.

Proceeds from the match will be turned over to Payton's mother.

With Fingers Crossed, We Are Trying Again

The gridiron horses hit the halfway pole in today's game with it still pretty much anybody's race in the Southeastern Conference.

Georgia Tech is leading by a length and running easily, but the rest of the pack is bunched and any one of a half dozen could move up and challenge for the lead in the last half of the race.

Things were a lot easier last week as we missed only five of 30 guesses, bringing our season's average up to 92 wins, 31 losses, eight ties, for a percentage of .748.

So, with crossed fingers, here we go again:

Georgia-Alabama: The top game of the SEC pits two ancient rivals who really want to win this one. Both have been defeated twice this season and today's game is considered the turning point of the season for both clubs. Unless Georgia's pass defense has improved considerably in the past two weeks, the Bulldogs are in for a rough afternoon with Harry Gilmer throwing against them. However, Georgia can do some throwing itself, and seems to have a shade the better line. Georgia.

Georgia Tech-Citadel: The undefeated Yellow Jackets' last easy one before tackling its tough November schedule. Tech by as many as Bobby Dodd wants.

Auburn-Tulane: Should be an interesting battle between two oft-beaten teams. Tulane has the advantage of playing at home and should win.

Vandy-LSU: Here is one between two once-defeated powerhouses of the league. The Commodores are feeling the effects of playing Northwestern, Alabama, Ole Miss and Kentucky on successive weekends. The Tigers have enough manpower to win and may reach their peak and make it by three or four touchdowns.

Florida-North Carolina: The 'Gators, no longer on their losing streak, have improved but hardly enough to whip the Tarheels. Charlie Justice is going to pop loose one of these days and this may be it. North Carolina.

Kentucky-Michigan State: The Wildcats probably will suffer a natural let-down after being "up" for Georgia and Vandy on the past two Saturdays. However, they should handle the Spartans, let down or not, and gain revenge for the Southeastern Conference for Michigan State's early-season triumph over Mississippi State.

Army-Columbia: The Cadets are the only major team in the nation which has yet to allow an opponent a score. Columbia's backs are capable of scoring, but that's about all. The Cadets by two.

California-Southern Cal: Pappy Waldorff has done a great job with the Golden Bears this season and this is the big one. The winner will be favored for the Rose Bowl. However, Southern Cal is looking more and more like the Trojans of old. On the toss of a coin, here's a vote for USC.

Duke-Wake Forest: Here is the headliner of the Southern Conference. The undefeated but once tied Blue Devils tackle a tough, unbeaten Wake Forest club. It will be Wade against Peahead Walker and anything is liable to happen. Duke, but prepare for a retreat.

Ole Miss-Arkansas: The Razorbacks are still smarting under that licking they took last year. However, when Conerly and Poole get through with them today they are liable to be smarting even more. Ole Miss.

Michigan-Minnesota: Despite Bierman's frantic efforts to arouse his Gophers, Michigan will continue along the road to the Big Nine title and the Rose Bowl.

Notre Dame-Iowa: The Irish are favored by some 26 points and may make it even larger. Frank Leahy, still smarting under recent doubts as to the power of his team, may turn Lujack and company loose. Notre Dame.

Pennsylvania-Navy: The Quakers, one of the East's few remaining powerhouses, will probably run into their toughest test of the season, but should win handily.

Texas-Rice: The Owls have always been a jinx to the Longhorns, but this year the latter have a new coach and a brand-new T-formation and shouldn't have too much trouble with a disappointing Rice eleven.

Baylor-Texas Aggies: Bob Woodruff's hayride is going to end sometime, but hardly today. Baylor.

Toccoa High Eleven Downs Jefferson, 40-0

TOCCOA, Oct. 24 — Toccoa High's eleven defeated Jefferson here Thursday night, 40 to 0. Toccoa's points came six in the first quarter, 21 in the second and 13 in the fourth.

The victory gives Toccoa four victories against one loss.

Greenies Liked Over Plainsmen

By GEORGE TISINGER
Constitution Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24—Tulane with a shaken up backfield found itself in the role of favorite here today for the first time this season as the Saturday game with Auburn's Plainsmen drew nigh.

Bookmakers here have installed the Green Wave in a spot 13 points better than the visitors and Coach Henry Frnka can't figure it out. He remembers the fact that a one-man football team, namely Travis Tidwell, will be in there pitching for the Tigers.

Tidwell is the man who crossed Georgia Tech's goal line for the first time in the Atlanta game last week. Frnka also remembers that none of his boys could cross the Tech stripe in the Wave-Jacket game earlier this season.

0	Ga. Tech	20	14	La. Tech	0
0	Rice	33	20	Florida	14

Frnka has sent his charges through a week of rough scrimmage and heavy contact drills. His aim has been to build up an adequate air defense for what folks know is coming from the Tidwell-led Plainsmen.

As for the backfield shift, Frnka has moved Jim Keeton, a star in the Ole Miss game, over to quarterback in place of Benny Ellender. Dick Hoot, a line plunger de luxe, now operates at fullback. Johnny Campora, New Orleans-born tailback, who whipped across the Mississippi line frequently, has ousted Don Fortier, another New Orleans boy, from the starting lineup. Only Ed Price remains among the starting four of last Saturday.

In the game between the two last year, Auburn couldn't go and the Wave won, 32 to 0, allowing Auburn only 34 yards on the ground as compared with 233 for Tulane.

Some people think that neither team has shown much improvement over their showing of last year. But Frnka can't forget that Tidwell is regaining his old form and that he is the one who put up such a stiff battle against Tech and scored against the Jackets. That's the reason he has been working his Wavemen as if they faced the toughest game of the season, and there are those from Alabama who will tell him he has something there.

MAINE CALLS OFF ALL GRID GAMES IN FIRE CRISIS

AUGUSTA, ME., Oct. 24—(AP)—Governor Horace A. Hildreth appealed Friday for cancellation of all Maine athletic contests and other large gatherings and evacuation. Colleges immediately postponed State Series football games.

Highways must be kept free for "unhampered travel of fire fighters, for convoys of men and materials, for disaster relief groups and for evacuation of people from threatened areas," the Governor said in a radio address.

The four Maine colleges announced that the Bates-Maine and Colby-Bowden football games scheduled for Saturday had been postponed.

Georgia B's Beat Vols, 7-0

ATHENS, Oct. 24—The good right foot of Pat Fields and the defensive play of little Jim McDowell, unknown end, gave the Georgia B team its first win of the season here Friday afternoon, a 7-0 victory over the Tennessee B's in a game played on the mud-soaked University practice field.

The game had originally been scheduled for Friday night in Sanford Stadium, but heavy rains caused the shift to the practice field to prevent utter destruction of the stadium grass before Saturday's Georgia-Alabama clash.

The field was a sea of mud and rain fell throughout the first half, making passing and ball handling almost impossible and slowing both running attacks almost to nothing.

McDowell, who had been shifted to end only two days ago, blocked fullback Clarence Smith's punt in the second quarter and set up the only score of the game. End Sam Powell recovered for Georgia at the four. Sonny Lloyd picked up one, and an offside penalty set the Vols back to their one foot line from where Richard Lee circled left end for the score. John R. Cobb converted, and that was the ball game.

Tennessee never threatened, and barely moved into Bullpup territory.

Citadel Opposes Tech Here Today

By BERT PRATHER

Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets will be after their fifth straight victory this afternoon at Grant Field when they meet Coach Quinn Decker's Citadel eleven, and unless something most drastic happens, Coach Dodd's boys should achieve their objective.

Not that the Citadel doesn't have a pretty fair and well coached outfit, but it would take a super optimist to bet that the Bulldogs from Charleston, S. C., would upset the powerful and slick running machine which is oiled and ready to go at 2:30 p. m. this afternoon.

The Cadets are expected to make the Jackets hustle, however, and if the field becomes muddy, score might be much closer than anticipated. Coach Decker, who was a teammate of Coach Dodd back in 1929 at the University of Tennessee, has piloted his Bulldogs to an even break in four games thus far this season. Presbyterian and Newberry fell before the Citadel attack by identical scores of 13-6, while William & Mary and Furman bested the Deckermen. It was in the Furman game that the Citadel made its best showing, losing by 7-0 on a rain soaked field.

Tech will start its first team, but it is the hope of Coach Dodd that he can withdraw the first stringers early and give the reserves much needed game experience. Then, too, Duke's Blue Devils are upcoming a week hence and it would be well for the Jackets starters to be well rested for this ordeal. The Devils are tough playmates.

Coach Dodd's probable starting lineup today will be the same as the one that faced Auburn last week with the exception left end and left halfback. Jimmy Castleberry will replace the injured Jack Griffin at end, while Freshman Red Patton will be in there at half instead of Jimmy Petit. Patton has been coming along great in scrimmage sessions the past week, and Coach Dodd probably will let him serve plenty of time today. Dinky Bowen, the injured halfback, will pass this one up and await the coming of the Dukes to test his ailing knee.

The Citadel arrived in town Friday afternoon too late to work out at Grant Field. Tech tapered off Friday afternoon with a light drill. A crowd of approximately 17,000 was expected to be in the stands.

North Fulton Blasts Fulton

By MERRELL MOORE

Sloshing through a continuous drizzle of rain, the North Fulton Bulldogs romped to a 26-0 victory over the Fulton Redbirds Friday night at North Fulton.

David Vann, topping the scales at only 135, sparked the Bulldogs' ground attack as they racked up 226 yards rushing while the Redbirds managed to gain only 92.

The Bulldogs staged a 47-yard march late in the first period with Vann and Pat Brogan carrying the load to the opponents' six, where Alfred Holbrook swept left end for the tally. Brogan booted the extra point.

Midway the second period, End Bobby Werder recovered a fumble at the opponents' 35. Vann and Emery Jenks carried to the 10. Brogan hit center for five and Vann circled right end for the score. Brogan's extra point was wide.

The Bulldogs scored again early in the fourth quarter when Tackle Billy Harwell recovered a fumble at the Fulton 20. Holbrook then dashed 20 yards to pay dirt. Brogan's extra point was wide and the Bulldogs led, 19-0.

Midway the final period North Fulton marched 30 yards with Vann and Brogan carrying to the eight. After a penalty had placed the ball at the three, Holbrook went off guard to the one and Brogan hit center for the final score.

Battered Commodores Play Bengals at Night

By GEORGE TISINGER,
Constitution Sports Writer.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24—Battered by four tough customers in a row, the Commodores of Vanderbilt take on another one up in Baton Rouge Saturday night in the second half of another of those Louisiana doubleheaders.

In addition it is homecoming for the Bayou Tigers and the bookies have installed the Baton Rouge players a two-touchdown favorite.

The Tigers have met Rice, Texas A. & M. and Boston College and came away on the topside. Only Georgia has downed them, over in Athens, Ga.

The Commodores also have won three while taking one lacing, this from Kentucky in a bruising battle last week in Nashville.

A bright spot in the Vandy set-up, though, is the fact that End John North, co-captain and sparkplug of the attack, is being counted on for his normal 50 minutes of play Saturday night.

North has been an outstanding defensive end and suffered a badly bruised shoulder two weeks ago and then had it rebanged in the Kentucky game last Saturday. However, his injury has responded nicely to treatment and trainers have pronounced him ready.

And Center Charley Hoover, preseasonally ranked tops in the Southeastern Conference, is down again with his bad leg which he reinjured for the second time in the Kentucky game.

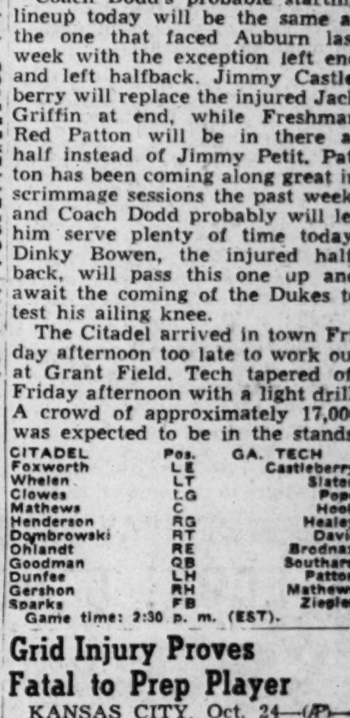

Junior Ed Maddux will start in Cantrell's place at left tackle and John Clark will open at the pivot.

Marist Comeback Ties Rome, 12-12

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The Marist Cadets, grimy and mud-spattered like so many well diggers after a hard day's work, rekindled a dying flame on Decatur's rain-drenched, windswept gridiron Friday night and seared their way to two last half touchdowns which gave the lads of Shorty Doyal a 12-12 tie with powerful Rome High.

The Ivy Street Cadets, twice beaten this year by heart-breaking late-game rallies, this time poured more fuel on the fire themselves as they surged back against a brilliant team and the foreboding weather to snatch a stalemate from what had seemed certain defeat when the Romans rolled to a 12-0 lead early in the third quarter.

Harold Fowler, of the invading Hilltoppers, and the Cadets' Chappell Rhino engaged in a fine punting duel with the slippery ball in the first half, and it was a break of the game that gave the charges of John (Stooge) Davis' a 6-0 lead midway the second period.

Fowler got away a booming punt which wobbled dizzily after striking the ground and hit Joe Sansbury, Marist sideback. In the ensuing scramble John Allen, Rome end, recovered the ball on the Marist 14-yard line. Curtis Bozeman got six yards on two rams at the line and then threw an incomplete pass. It was fourth down and four yards to go at the Marist eight when Tommy Yarbrough broke around right end on what Davis calls his "Sally Rand Play"—a naked reverse—for eight yards and a touchdown. Bozeman failed to buck over the extra point.

The first time Rome got possession in the third quarter this same Yarbrough, who was the standout player on the field, utilized "Sally Rand" again and streaked 65 yards down the right sidelines for another touchdown. Bud Smith failed to buck across the extra point but Rome led, 12-0 and it seemed all over except adding up the score.

After that it was all Marist. The Romans had their hands on the ball few times in the final stages of the game. Shortly after the Romans' second score Cecil Ramsey and Bobby Hurst covered the fumble of a punt by Yarbrough at the Romans' 30. A 15-yard penalty on Rome put the ball at the 15 from where Jerry Norton and Rhine bulled their way to the three. Norton, running all night harder than any other back on the field, smashed across from the three. Charles Turner's pass for the extra point was batted down and Marist trailed, 12-6.

The Cadets, taking possession on their own 49 early in the fourth quarter, took the hard way to pay dirt, 51 yards away, Dave Dawson; Bubber Tietz, Rhino and Norton, aided by a 15-yard roughing penalty on Rome, ploughed goalward through the mud and over the slippery turf. It was fourth down and one to go at the six-yard line when Norton, smashing his way like an enraged bull, piledrivered to the tying touchdown. Rhino's buck for the conversion point was smothered at the line of scrimmage.

Maris almost lost the game on the next kickoff with only three minutes left. Yarbrough took the boot, hurdled one tackler at the 20 and sped 61 yards into the clear before Rhino overhauled him from behind on the Marist 33. It was a game-saving play.

End John Allen, Tackle Clayton Doss and Guard Earl McClung were the forewall standouts for the Romans, who still are unbeaten in GIAA play. Walter Turner, Ken King and John Arnold were bulwarks of strength up front for Marist.

ALL-STATE GUARD—Bill Henderson, rugged Citadel guard, will be in the starting lineup against Georgia Tech here today. Playing his third year on the varsity, the 195-pounder is one of the most experienced linemen on the Bulldog squad.

Irish Prep Smashes GMA, 25-14

By JESSE OUTLAR

After spotting GMA two touchdowns in the first few minutes of play, the Notre Dame Irish got up out of the mud and crushed the Cadets, 25-14, Friday night on the GMA gridiron in a game played in a drizzling downpour.

Terry Cotter, a swivel-hipped halfback; Jack O'Neal, and Dick Kovacevich, a plunging fullback, pierced the GMA line to shreds as the Irish put on a determined rally to hand GMA its second defeat of the season.

The Cadets scored twice in the first seven minutes, taking advantage of two decisive breaks. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Cadets couldn't penetrate the stout Irish line and Dickenson punted. A startled Notre Dame back touched the ball and GMA recovered on the one. Henry Mote bulldozed off tackle for the score. Buchman passed to Knox for the point.

Shortly afterwards, GMA capitalized on an Irish fumble on the Notre Dame 23. Motes and Buchman cracked to the Irish one and Quarterback Bobby Tisdale sneaked over. Buchman converted.

Thereafter, Notre Dame took over. The hefty green clad line outcharged GMA on almost every play. Before the first period ended, the Chattanooga team launched a sustained drive, but lost the ball on downs.

Only momentarily halted, Notre Dame rammed the middle of the GMA forward wall on a 50-yard march to pay-dirt early in the second period. Terry Cotter covered the last 15 yards on a driving, twisting plunge for the score and then skipped over for the extra point.

With the GMA line pulled in close attempting to halt the bull-like rushes of Kovacevich, Cotter calmly stepped back and popped a 28-yard strike into End Buck Martin's outstretched arms on the Cadet 15 and Martin waltzed the remainder of the way.

Coach Leslie Fouts' fast-stepping backs, such as Joe Conine and Henry Motes, were completely stymied by a combination of mud and alert Irish forwards.

As the third period got under way, Notre Dame chalked up its third score, Cotter set up the tally with a 40-yard jaunt to the Cadet three. And on the third play from there, Kovacevich bolted after carrying the Cadet line with him.

Eating up yardage on every play, Notre Dame was soon back at the Cadet eight, but lost the ball on downs as the final period started. However, the pause was only temporary. After recovering a GMA fumble, the Irish marched 30 yards for their final tally. Cotter climaxed his great performance with a 19-yard touchdown dash.

Lanier Edges Jordan, 14-12

MACON, Oct. 24—The Poets of Lanier High edged their traditional GIAA rival, Jordan High of Columbus, 14 to 12 here Friday night before an estimated throng of 5,000 fans.

In a see-saw battle, Lanier broke the scoring ice with a first period tally which came as the result of a 36 yard pass from Joe Davis to Bayne Mallory. Mallory took the heave at the seven and stepped over, untouched.

Jordan tallied in the second on a reverse play, Ray Land to Ed Jones, which carried 28 yards across the double stripes. The placement try was blocked.

Jordan held a brief lead in the third period when Lyons climaxed a drive with a three-yard sprint. But, Lanier, not to be denied, sewed up the game with a fourth period tally by Jack Harvey. Blake again booted the ball between the uprights.

CITADEL RICH IN TRADITION

Tech's Foe Today A Military Leader

By JESSE OUTLAR

You won't find The Citadel Bulldogs, who meet Georgia Tech on Grant Field this afternoon, ranked high among the college football teams of the nation. They're far down the list.

But the school the football team represents has few peers in its field. Competent military experts place this famous institution, located at Charleston, S. C., in a very select group at the top of the list.

It was Cadet G. E. Haynesworth, of Sumter, S. C., acting under orders from Cadet Commander Major P. F. Stevens, who fired the first volley of the Civil War.

At daybreak, Jan. 9, 1861, the Star of the North, Union steamer loaded with munitions and reenforcements for Fort Sumter, sailed past Cummings Point. Informed in advance of the ship's arrival, The Citadel Cadets were prepared.

During the months to follow, Citadel men distinuished themselves throughout the Confederate ranks. Statistics reveal that 86 percent of the living graduates served with the South. Three cadets rose to generals.

On far-flung battlefields in the Spanish-American War, World War I and the late conflict, Citadal cadets have established proud records, proving that Gov. J. P. Richardson was justified in his struggle to establish the school in Charleston.

Actually, the Citadel had its origin back in 1822. Fearing an insurrection the state built an arsenal to protect the city and state. It was called the Citadel.

VMI, another great military college, had a similar beginning, and it was after this institution that Gov. Richardson patterned the Citadel. At first, he encountered major opposition, but in 1842, the Legislature passed the bill to make Richardson's dream a reality.

So from this humble start, the famous Citadel of today was begun. Its history is an epic in courage. Its contribution in times of peace and war to this nation is of great magnitude.

That football team battling the unbeaten Jackets this afternoon represents a truly great Military Academy.

Buford Trounces Jonesboro, 13-7

JONESBORO, Oct. 24—Playing in a steady downpour of rain on a flooded field, the Buford Wolves scored on fourth down from the one-foot line in the last two minutes of play here Friday night to beat the Jonesboro Cardinals, 13-7.

Jonesboro went ahead in the first period when Johnny Voyles scored on a 41-yard end run and Kraft kicked the extra point from placement. The Cardinals still led at the half after Buford scored on a 28-yard pass from Payne to Lynn and they continued on top down to the last two minutes when Lynn got over from the one-foot line to swing the decision to Buford. Walls then bucked over for the extra point.

Jonesboro passes to the flat were very effective and helped run up 14 first downs to seven for Buford. James Satterfield, 15-year-old 185-pound end, did a great kicking job to keep Buford from making much headway, averaging 46.5 yards on 12 kicks.

It was homecoming for Jonesboro but the bad weather held the crowd down to about 800.

RELIEF ACE SEES SHOTTON PILOTING BUMS AGAIN

Casey Believes Leo Is Through

By F. M. WILLIAMS

Leo Durocher doesn't have a chance of ever managing in Brooklyn again, in the opinion of Buckhead's Hugh Casey, who checked into Atlanta Friday for a brief visit with relatives and friends.

Casey, the ace relief hurler for the National League champions of 1947 and winner of two games in the World Series, doubts that the stormy Durocher will ever re-enter baseball, but if he does Hugh thinks it will be on the West Coast.

"If he would come back to Brooklyn for about a year and mix and mingle with the people, I believe the public would demand he be restored as manager," Casey said. "But as long as he insists on staying on the West Coast the fans don't want any part of him."

Casey said that Leo deserves a lot of credit for the Dodgers winning the 1947 pennant because he actually molded the team during Spring training.

"We knew then that Jackie Robinson was going to be brought in from Montreal and put on first base. That was the only change after Leo was suspended."

Burt Shotton will manage the Dodgers again next season, in the opinion of the Pride of Buckhead.

"I don't believe Shotton would have returned if our kids hadn't made such a fine showing in the World Series, but now I believe he would like to have one more crack at a world's championship," he added.

The chunky right-hander, rated by many as the best relief hurler in baseball, said the odds right now are about six to five that the Dodgers will repeat as pennant winners in '48.

HUGH CASEY

Busy Promoting Hugh Casey

Casey says the Dodgers need a power hitter and for that reason he believes Pistol Pete Reiser will be traded during the season. It wouldn't surprise him, he says, if Stan Musial, the hard-hitting Cardinal first-sacker, winds up in a Brooklyn uniform, probably by next season.

"We didn't have a great star on our team this year, but we had a bunch of fellows who could do a good job," Hugh said. "Shotton is a great man with kids and they really came through for us this time."

Casey had a lot of praise for Eddie Stanky, the peppery little second baseman.

"If Stanky ever made a mistake he'd be out of the big leagues in a minute," Hugh said. "He can't run, he can't hit, he can't field and he can't throw, but he's so far ahead of the next one with that noggin' that he sticks around and does a pretty good job."

The former Cracker hurler has been at Brooklyn for nine years. He's been in the big time since 1935, going up to the Chicago Cubs from Atlanta, and in all his career his team has never finished out of the first division.

He was on three pennant winners, the Cubs in '35, the Dodgers in 1940 and this year.

Right now, the portly chunker is busy promoting a new game called "Hugh Casey on the Mound." It's a baseball game that that will soon be available in the nation's leading stores, Hugh says.

As for his future, Hugh figures he'll be an active hurler another couple of years and then he'll either coach or scout for the Dodgers.

"Mr. Rickey called me in a year ago and told me I had a lifetime job with the Dodgers in one capacity or another."

Hapeville Crushes Rams, 27-0

By HENRY DAILEY

Hapeville's bulldozing backfield, led by Tommy McDonald, crushed the College Park Rams, 27 to 0, before 1,200 rain-soaked fans Friday night at College Park. It was the sixth victory for the Hornets, who also beat the Rams, 12-7, in the opening game of the season.

McDonald raced 69 yards to a touchdown on the first play of the game and when the Hornets cashed in on a fumble that set up a second score a few minutes later the Rams were never in the ball game.

A host of hard-running backs, paced by Cotton Johnson, Jimmy Lane, Steve Patrick, Jack Davis and McDonald, splashed over the muddy field almost at will, while rugged line play by George Johnson and John West held off every College Park threat. The closest the Rams came was the 25-yard line late in the third period.

Shortly after McDonald's spectacular run in the opening quarter, John West pounced on a Ram fumble at the 38-yard line. A fumble and recovery by Walter Quinn lost three and McDonald went off tackle for 11. Then Lane raced around left end for 30 yards and a touchdown.

The Hornets added their third touchdown early in the second quarter. Lane ran for 22 and McDonald four to the College Park 12, then Johnson went around right end to paydirt. McDonald hit the line for his second of three extra points and the Hornets held a 20-0 lead at halftime.

Hapeville stopped the Rams' drive at their own 24 late in the third period then drove 76 yards to their final touchdown. McDonald ploughed over from the two-yard stripe and then added the final point on a buck.

Gainesville Tops Marietta

MARIETTA, Oct. 24—Gainesville High retained its unbeaten pace here Friday night with a 20-to-0 victory over the Marietta Blue Devils.

The Red Elephants from Gainesville now have a record of four victories and two ties this season.

Gainesville dominated play throughout, scoring one touchdown in the initial quarter and two more for good measure in the final period.

The first tally came on a 56-yard march after an exchange of fumbles. Jack Roberts, Gainesville left halfback, plunged the final two yards after almost being trapped back on the Marietta 15-yard line. Oglesby blocked Roberts' try for extra point.

The battling Marietta eleven held the Elephants in check until early in the fourth period, when Roberts again climaxed a 68-yard drive with a plunge from the five. A pass, Roberts to Jimmy Henson, was good for the extra point.

A mixup in downs set the stage for the final Gainesville score. The Marietta quarterback thought his team had made a first down on a third crack at the line, so on the next play he called for a plunge at the line, which failed, and the ball went over. Gainesville scored in five plays, with Marvin Free pushing it over from the one. Roberts placekicked for the extra point.

Stars for Gainesville were Henson, Roberts and Capt. George Dobbs. Marietta standouts were Don Haywood, Robert West and Charlie Rohner. Gainesville led in first downs, 12 to 5.

Winder Wins, 13-7, Over Monroe Team

MONROE, Oct. 24—Scoring in the first period on a 10-yard run and in the third on Bruce Cain's 80-yard gallop through mud and water, the Winder eleven defeated Monroe here Friday night, 13-7.

Harry Hughes marked up the first touchdown after two long drives were stopped by the locals. Monk Coner kicked the extra point after the first touchdown.

Monroe connected with several passes despite the condition of the field and drove to the Winder five once and to the Winder two on another occassion. Fumbles which were recovered by Winder stopped both threats.

Cartersville Falls Before Decatur

CARTERSVILE, Oct. 24—Led by Don Rogers, Courts Redford and Bobby Stone, Decatur's high-scoring Bulldogs turned back a stubborn Cartersville eleven here Friday night, 31 to 14, in a game marred by rain and mud.

Carersville gave the highly-favored Bulldogs a bad scare in the first half, twice holding brief leads, but they couldn't stand the pace in the last half when Decatur pushed over a pair of touchdowns to win by a comfortable margin.

A recovered fumble on its own 46-yard line gave Decatur its first scoring opportunity and they cashed in on it when Rogers, who had carried the load throughout the drive, dived over from the two.

It was a short-lived lead. Cartersville came right back with a 60-yard drive sparked by Joe Powers and Jim Colvin, with the latter scoring. Colvin made good the extra point to put his team ahead.

Decatur put on a seventy-yard march for its second touchdown, Rogers scoring on a 24-yard run, but again the Bulldogs could not hold the lead for long. Cartersville took the kickoff and went 60 yards for a touchdown with Bill Magnus scoring. This time Powers made the extra point.

Redford's passing gave the Bulldogs their third touchdown. He hit Jim Harper with one good for 17 yards and then found Lawrence Thompson open on the one-yard line that netted 31 more yards. Rogers scored from the one and at halftime the visitors held a very uncomfortable 19-to-14 lead.

Soon after the start of the second half, Redford started Decatur on its way to another touchdown. From his own 28, the quarterback ran for 33 yards and then Stone picked up 27 more. Redford then passed to John Harper, who fumbled when hit on the goal line. Tom Dowman fell on it in the end zone for the touchdown.

A 17-yard run by Rogers and Pete Johnson's 20-yard spurt highlighted an 80-yard scoring drive in the fourth period that ended with Redford piling over from the one.

Decatur piled up 20 first downs to 12 for Carterville and gained 401 yards rushing and passing to 180.

GMC Beats Auburn Bees

MILLEDGEVILLE, Oct. 24—Employing a crushing ground attack, GMC downed the Auburn Freshmen, 15-6, in a hard-fought game here Friday night. It was the fourth victory for GMC.

After a scoreless first period, GMC scored early in the second quarter with Parnell Ruark passing 34 yards to Eli Saunders on the Auburn three. Fullback L. C. Collins bucked over for the score.

Auburn surged right back with a sustained drive to tie the score. Fulmore Armstrong skirting 38 yards for the score.

Emerson Brown, pint-sized halfback, scampered 70 yards on a punt return for the second GMC tally in the third quarter and Ruark smashed over for the point.

Boston College Beats Villanova

BOSTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Fleet Joe Diminick took off on a 55-yard scoring run through most of opposition to give the Boston College Eagles a 6-0 win over Villanova's powerful Wildcats before a 40,184 crowd Friday night on a Braves Field gridiron that was covered by the haze of New England's raging forest fires.

Shortly before that game-winning run, Al Schmid ruined Villanova's only sustained drive by fumbling in the Boston College end zone after smashing for a yard.

After two and a half periods of a fairly even stalemate, Villanova took a punt on Boston College's 46-yard line. Bill Doherty, the Wildcats' T-formation quarterback, then got his forces rolling by tossing a lateral that Romeo Capriotti lugged 41 yards. Driving from the Eagles' five, George Schreiber plunged to the two-yard line, from where Halfback Al Schmid took off for what appeared to be a sure-fire touchdown.

But as that long-distance punter banged into the B. C. end zone, the ball was batted out of his hands by Steve Stuka, the Eagles' vigilant signal-caller and Maury Poissant smothered it for a touchback.

LaGrange Wins, But Loses Star Back for Season

LAGRANGE, Oct. 24 — LaGrange had its hands mull edging out a 7-6 victory over Robert E. Lee High of Thomaston here Friday night, but in winning LaGrange lost for the season its star halfback, Dick Hill, who suffered a broken collar bone in the second quarter.

LaGrange scored in the first period when Charles Lancaster tallied on an end-around from the 11 after Radcliff of Lee got off a bad punt that went out of bounds on his own 11. Billy Sharp kicked the all-important point from placement to assure the victory.

After losing their NGFA leading scorer in the second period, the LaGrange boys had a letdown and the Lee outfit dominated play. Rain started to fall during the halftime intermission and the teams played the last half on a muddy field.

After a series of passes helped bring the ball to the LaGrange two in the third period, Radcliff went over for the Lee touchdown. Then on the wet field, Radcliff's attempted conversion from placement was short and wide.

Lee drove to the LaGrange 23 in the fourth quarter and again Radcliff tried for a goal but his kick was short on the bad field.

La Grange scored 11 first downs to Lee's five.

Savannah Hi Bumps Grady In Rain, Mud

SAVANNAH, Oct. 24—Savannah High's Blue Jackets pushed over a lone second period tally here Friday night to defeat Henry Grady High, of Atlanta, 7-0 on a mud-soaked field.

A driving rain which started late in the afternoon and continued throughout the contest turned the playing field into a quagmire and fumbles came fast and furious. A series of fumbles by both teams led to the tally.

Tommy Tillman, Grady back, kicked to Shorty Herrmann at his own 35 after the start of the second period, and Herrmann raced back to the Grady 25. Savannah fumbled on the first scrimmage play and Bobby Turk recovered. Grady then fumbled and Buddy Lockett pounced on the ball at the Grady 21. Ben New, substitute fullback hit the line for one, Charles Smith passed to Dick Leech for 14 yards, and Smith and New added four more. Herrmann crashed through center for the final two yards and the marker. Willie Griffin's placement split the uprights.

Henry Grady threatened only once. The visitors managed to work the ball down to the Savannah 35 before they gave up the ball on downs.

Richmond Beats Athens High, 45-0

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 24—(AP)—A steady downpour and an extremely soggy field failed to slow down the Richmond Academy's onrushing Musketeers Friday night as the Cadets battled their way to a one-sided 45-0 victory over an outmanned and outclassed Athens High eleven to remain unbeaten.

Richmond scored in the first two minutes of play when Jimmy Cooper returned a punt 48 yards to the Athens two and then plunged over for the marker. Cooper also scored the second six-pointer on a 40-yard slant off tackle, and ran his total for the evening to 18 points with a 31-yard jaunt to paydirt in the third quarter.

Sharing the spotlight with Cooper was Billie Beale who scored twice, once on an 89-yard sweep around end and again on a 19-yard trek. Derwent Langley ran 80 yards for a touchdown and Gene Brigham added the final touchdown on a short end run after James Huguley had returned a punt 70 yards to the Athens five.

Athens had two scoring opportunities, once on a recovered fumble at the Cadet 18 and again after Nate Williams returned a kickoff to the Richmond 11. But each time the Cadets held.

Smithies Win, 16-0 Over Bass

By RUSSELL MUSGRAVE

Cecil Moon's Hoke Smith Smithies still share the City League lead with Brown High after Friday night's 16-0 victory over the game but still scoreless Bass High Blue Wave.

The Smithies grabbed a two-point first-quarter lead after their stellar substitute center, Leon Cunningham, blocked Richard Langley's punt on the Blue Wave's 12-yard line late in the period. The ball bounced back into the end zone with a Blue Wave lad falling on it for an automatic safety.

The Smithies took the ensuing kickoff on their own 40 and scored on the first play in the second quarter with Tailback Marvin Claborn firing a 20-yard looping pass to Left End Doyle Kugler who was standing in the clear in the Bass end zone for the touchdown that put the Smithies ahead 8-0. Fullback Conrad Moon made good the placement attempt.

After an exchange of punts in the same quarter, the Smithies, on a sustained drive from the Bass 32-yard line widened the gulf to a 16-0 score with Moon going over from the one after carrying the ball five straight times. Moon slit the uprights to wind up the Smithie scoring.

During the scoreless second half, Bass played on even terms with the Smithies, nearly scoring in the fourth period on a spectacular 37-yard aerial from Quarterback Marshall Akers to back Jim Ransbotham who was in the clear and goal-bound before Cunningham tackle him from behind on the Smithies 27 yard line. Three plays later the inspired Blue Waves were on the Smithies 21-yard line but a bad snap from center sent Akers back to the 35 with no pass receivers open and he was tackled visciously there.

Getting nowhere on the next three plays, Moon's kick was solidly blocked by the Bass defensive standout, Fullback Bob Keel, on the Smithies' 33-yard line, but the Blue Waves failed to capitalize on the break.

Perhaps the finest goal-line stand that any team has made this season was made by Coach Swede Phillips' Blue Waves on their own one-foot line in the third period. Three times the pile-driving Moon and Claborn hit that solid wall and as many times were hurled back. On the fourth try Moon went over, but fumbled in the end zone, with Bass recovering for a touchback.

TRUMAN

cost of living. Adequate measures—enacted in time—are necessary to correct the present situation."

Turning to foreign relief needs, he declared the United States policy has been and is "to assist free men and free nations to recover from the devastation of war, to stand on their own feet, to help one another, and to contribute their full share to a stable and lasting peace."

"Timely and forthright action," he said, is needed to relieve "hunger and cold abroad".

Mr. Truman gave this picture of emergency needs as he sees them:

France—$457,000,000 to carry her through until next March 31.

Italy — $142,000,000 to last through December 31 and an additional $143,000,000 to run through March 31.

Occupied areas in Germany, Japan and Korea—"serious difficulties" require additional funds in an amount he did not specify.

The President summed up:

"The two problems I have been discussing with you tonight—high prices at home and hunger and cold abroad—present a challenge to the American people.

"We could choose the course of inaction. We could wait until depression caught up with us, until our living standards sank, and people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice."

In saying that "inflation must be stopped before it is too late," Mr. Truman described high prices at home and emergency aid abroad as obstacles which must be overcome by prompt action. He added:

"Legislation by the Congress is essential. The need is too pressing—the results of delay too grave—for Congressional action to wait until the next (regular) session in January."

The President also took occasion—for the first time—to reply to the recent accusations by Andrei Vischinsky and other Russian delegates to the United Nations Assembly that the United States is seeking through the Marshall European Rehabilitation Plan and its general foreign policy to achieve world domination.

He called these Soviet claims "nonsense," and said the United States is pursuing only a "definite and clear" foreign policy which is aimed at helping free peoples everywhere to do their full share to bring about lasting peace.

"We are following a definite and clear foreign policy," he said. "That policy has been, is now, and shall be to assist free men and free nations to recover from the devastation of war, to stand on their own feet, to help one another, and to contribute their full share to a stable and lasting peace.

"We follow that policy for the purpose of securing the peace and well-being of the world. It is nonsense to say that we seek dominance over any other nations. We believe in freedom, and we are doing all we can to support free men and free governments throughout the world."

Before Mr. Truman took to the radio, two high-ranking Republican lawmakers raised the cry that he was "playing politics" by linking rising living costs with foreign aid in his special session call.

Rep. Halleck, Republican, Indiana, House Majority Leader and Rep. Wolcott, Republican, Michigan, Chairman of the House Banking Committee, were joined by Carroll Reece, GOP National Chairman, in the "politics" theme.

Halleck said "it is now obvious that he is trying to shift the emphasis from foreign aid to prices. Wolcott, after talking with House Speaker Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, said he saw "a little political racket" being worked.

As to the situation abroad, Mr. Truman said:

"This is the problem of hunger and cold and human suffering abroad. It is the problem of men and women and children who look to us for help at this crucial time."

He said the "period of crisis is now at hand" and the "perils of hunger and cold in Europe make this Winter a decisive time in history."

"All the progress of reconstruction and all the promise of future plans are endangered," he continued.

"If European nations are to continue their recovery, they must get through this Winter without being crippled by economic paralysis and resulting chaos.

"In advance of our decision on the long-range European recovery plan, we must help some nations through this immediate crisis. The most imminent danger exists in France and in Italy.

"If the economies of these countries collapse and the people succumb to totalitarian pressures, there will be no opportunity for them or for us to look forward to their recovery so essential to world peace."

The President said that the "first need is food," and that the "other major shortage is fuel."

Without saying what legislation he plans to recommend to Congress later, the President remarked that even with the proposed aid from this country, the people of Europe this Winter "will be on short rations."

"They will be cold and they will be without many necessities," he said.

Home Projects in Path Of Super Highway

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Two private homes are being erected in the path of the proposed super-expressway which is designed to ease Atlanta's traffic flow.

And the construction is being done with the approval of the City Building Inspector's office.

Two $8,000 houses are being erected at 1639 and 1645 Loring Dr. W. Frank Burson Company, Buckhead real estate operator, obtained the permits. Grading has started.

An examination of the northwest leg of the giant expressway system recommended by H. W. Lochner & Company shows that the site of the two home lies directly in the path of the proposed artery.

T. D. House, Assistant State Director of the Division of Highway Planning, said surveys now being conducted by engineers have not yet reached the stage where routes of the arteries can be pegged.

Frank Burson, head of the developing organization, said he knows nothing definite of the planned route of the traffic expressway.

"I know there has been some conversation about a traffic route, but people need houses. I considered the talk about the highway as one of those periodic pipe dreams we sometimes have. The houses we are building may be absolete and outmoded before we get a highway system like the one which has been laid out."

Twice before, Atlanta has faced the problem of proposed construction in the path of the projected North-South expressway from Hemphill Avenue Southward by Vine Street. A freezer locker plant at Hemphill and Fourteenth Street was the subject of discussion for several weeks, and finally was settled when an alternate plan was adopted, which by-passed the locker installations.

City Council last Monday held up a permit for rezoning property near the intersection of Watkins and Tenth Streets, N. W., which also may lie along the route of the same artery.

The stretch on Loring Drive which is in question lies west of the Peachtree Station. Loring Drive runs parallel to Peachtree.

Reports from the Highway Department indicated that Robert & Company, which is making new surveys of the metropolitan traffic problem, now is working on the expressway system south of Sixteenth Street. Engineers have not yet begun work north of Sixteenth. It also was said Robert engineers have been instructed to follow generally the Lochner routes, but to make minor adjustments and shifts when they can be done economically.

FINED FOR METHOD

Rag Burner's Object Praised

Thomas Favors, Negro, of 570 McDaniel St., S. W., was commended by Judge A. W. Callaway Friday for his desire to eliminate rats —but reprimanded and fined $17 because of his method.

Favors was arraigned before Recorder Callaway in Police Court, charged with disorderly conduct after Annie Roberts, Negro, declared she had been frequently "smoked out" of her apartment above his by the pungent odor of burning rags.

Favors readily admitted setting rags on fire and putting up stove pipe to force smoke and fumes up a crack in his ceiling. "Sometimes the smell got so bad I had to leave home myself," he admitted, "but I did it to get rid of the rats."

day and drove fresh threats and evacuation alarms to Jonesboro, Maine.

Maine's death toll stood at eight and its loss was officially estimated at $25,000,000. Three fire-caused deaths were listed in Massachusetts, three in Michigan and one in Connecticut.

Richest target of the flames in the State was the plush Bar Harbor expanse where damage alone was set at $8,000,000 in property, exclusive of costly furnishings and art treasures.

Showplaces destroyed included those of Author Mary Roberts Rinehart, Lady Eunice Oakes, Financier William Hamilton, Soap Manufacturer William Proctor, Steamship Magnate George Munson. Also lost were the famed Memorial Laboratory and the buildings of Acadia National Park.

Associated Press Writer James Calogero from the height of the fire in Bar Harbor said the international Summer colony looked "like a smoking dump" with telegraph poles blazing like torches and only a dozen of 50 once-palatial residences left.

What the Governor called Maine's greatest economic catastrophe carried a threat of future loss in the minds of many emergency workers who talked during hot coffee pauses of whether or not the great Summer houses would be rebuilt.

A Maine development commissioner said that the ruin of Mt. Desert Island alone would mean an accompanying loss up to $5,000,000 in Summer recreation jobs and business.

Flattened by flames which swept 100,000 acres in the State were six Maine villages numbering about 500 persons in each—Lyman, Brownfield, East Brownfield, Goose Rocks, Fortune's Rock and East Waterboro.

Saved by boat, Mrs. Andrew Walls, 49, told of "a crescent of fire—just like a big furnace around us." She said women were hysterical and children were crying with fear and cold.

Mrs. Katherine Davis said she escaped in a school bus loaded with 34 other persons, three dogs, a kitten and a canary.

Some families found reunions at evacuation centers but for others late Friday there was still worry and waiting for separated children or others.

In a night trip through part of Southwestern Maine Associated Press Writer Robert M. Crocker saw "tired and numb people" opening their homes to burned out neighbors.

Crocker wrote of "a pattern of ash covered roads with groups of weary firefighters, poles tipped at crazy angles or broken, embers spraying sparks down the wind and everywhere the acrid smoke."

The Army, which has flown men and equipment to the worst areas, Friday added four planes carrying fire weapons out of Middletown, Pa., and Mitchel Field, New York, sent 200 troops and materials in 18 planes.

At Rochester, N. H., winds were aiming a firefront at the industrial center of the city and school children were kept together a preparation for possible exvacuation.

Massachusetts where loss has reached more than $500,000, reported 12 to 15 fires still burning unchecked, with 15,000 to 20,000 acres and undetermined number of buildings destroyed.

Officials throughout the fire belt echoed Massachusetts State Forester Raymond J. Kenney in this view of the fire battle:

"Our fate depends a lot on the weather and the winds—but if we held during Thursday night in the teeth of those winds I think we can hold anything."

on the rim of the canyon. Pieces of paper and other stuff was all over. Bob and I saw five or six bodies—all naked—which, I guess, had been thrown out of the plane."

It was the first crash of a DC-6, a new type of plane.

Only three commercial aviation crashes have taken a larger death toll. Fifty-three persons were killed last May 30 at Fort Deposit, Md., and the same number died in two crashes at Bogota, Colombia, on July 24, 1938, and Feb. 15, 1947.

The pilot reported by radio shortly before the crash he was battling a fire in the plane's baggage compartment.

Ten miles from the crash scene, at Tropic, a service station operator, Mrs. L. S. Steed, said the big plane was on fire as it came over, heading for the emergency airport.

A moment later, she heard a terrific explosion and saw a mushrooming cloud of smoke that "looked like the atom bomb pictures."

The explosion, Mrs. Steed declared, shook her service station as if "it had been hit by a truck."

In Chicago UAL Headquarters released a series of terse messages from the plane.

"We have baggage fire aboard," the first said at 12:21 p. m., MST.

"We are coming to Bryce Canyon. We have smoke filled plane. Unable to put out fire yet."

Five minutes later the plane messaged: "The tail fire is going out. We may get down and we may not. Best place we can—." A brief period of silence followed, then:

"May make it. Think we have a chance now. Approaching the strip."

But five minutes later, at 12:32 p. m., the Civil Aeronautics Authority said, its Bryce Canyon Station reported "a fire one mile east of Bryce."

UAL officials said the cause of the crash could not be known until an investigation was completed. CAA inspectors were reported on their way to the scene.

Paul Steek, Garfield County Deputy Sheriff, said the luxurious craft fell about 50 feet from

Glynn Official, 2 Others Fined After Quarrel Over Guards' Trial

BRUNSWICK, Oct. 24—(AP)—A County official and two other men were fined in City Court Friday on a disorderly conduct charge for engaging in a street quarrel over the pending Federal Court trial of prison guards accused of violation of civil rights in the eight Negro prisoners.

Charges against a fourth man were dismissed.

Sam Levine, Glynn County Commissioner, was given a $50 fine or 60 days in jail. He announced he would appeal. P. H. McNabb and Tom Mills were given $10 fines and said they would pay them. Disorderly conduct charges against J. W. Johns were dismissed.

Levine was accused some time ago by a special Investigating committee of the Legislature of making unfounded charges against Warden H. G. Worthy and four guards. The Warden and guards are scheduled to be tried Monday in Federal Court on charges of violating civil right statutes in the shooting of the eight convicts at the Glynn work camp last July 11.

Johns formerly served as an assistant warden at the Glynn camp but was not connected with it at the time the Negroes were killed.

The four men met on the street here Thursday not far from Levine's office. A policeman halted the argument and preferred the charges.

Federal charges were placed against the warden and guards after a coroner's jury, a Glynn County Superior Court Grand Jury and the special Legislative Committee absolved them of blame in the shootings.

Seizure of 70 Averts Chaos In Salonika

ATHENS, Oct. 24—(AP)—An uprising that police said would have "plunged Salonika into chaos" has been prevented by the arrest of 70 persons in that Northern Greek port city, it was announced officially Friday.

In addition to discovering plans for what they called a "Communist Terrorist" rebellion in Salonika, the police said they seized a stock of grenades, dynamite, pistols, new automatic rifles, carbines, thousands of cartridges, swords, light mortar shells and a few large shells.

The announcement said the rebellion plans were discovered in a printing shop.

The plot was described as having divided Salonika into three sections, each with its own "terrorist" chiefs, instructors, executioners, saboteurs and technical advisers, all recruited from Communist organizations.

Each group was armed heavily. Some of those arrested had arms on their persons and others arrested at night had pistols under their pillows, the announcement said.

Vishinsky Friday Blast Renews 'War' Charges

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 24—(AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky renewed his attack on U. S. Delegates Warren R. Austin and John Foster Dulles Friday night as the Soviet Bloc's "warmonger" offensive spread to two fronts in the United Nations Assembly.

The Russian Chief Delegate also declared that the United States reminded him of "Prussianism" and "Hitlerism."

Vishinsky took the floor in the 57-member Political Committee of the Assembly and charged that Austin sounded an "appeal for war" Thursday when the U. S. delegate called on the Assembly to reject Russia's resolution condemning "warmongering."

Vishinsky has named Dulles in his list of 15 Americans he calls "warmongers." The Russian answered Austin's defense of Dulles as a "Christian gentleman" by asserting that Dulles "preaches a tough policy against Soviet Russia. That is why he is a warmonger."

Shortly before Vishinsky spoke, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt struck at a Yugoslav resolution in the Assembly's Social Committee. She declared the U. S. Government is gravely concerned at "the growing practice of erecting tight, governmental monopolies over the information disseminated in many nations of the world."

Turkey, a recipient of American aid under the Truman Program, started the day's debate with an accusation that the Russian Government radio and the Moscow press is waging a campaign of "psychological aggression" again Turkish people and making "warmongering" attacks on the Turkish Government.

Selim Sarper, Turkish Chief Delegate, appealed to the United Nations Assembly to stop "this nefarious propaganda." He spoke in answer to charges by Vishinsky that "warmongering" and "criminal war propaganda" are being carried on in the U. S., Turkey and Greece.

Vishinsky retorted later in the day that none of the examples cited by Sarper was "warmongering."

Folsom Bans Flogging At Prisons

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 24—(AP)—Governor James E. Folsom Friday ordered flogging and all other forms of corporal punishment abolished in Alabama prisons.

The Governor said his order would be "universal except in extreme cases" and would remain in effect until he receives a report from a legislative commission to study prison conditions.

Folsom told newsmen he would issue an executive order soon creating the Commission. He previously announced an intention to set up an investigating group after he vetoed a legislative resolution calling for a study of the prison system and also of the Alcholic Beverage Control Board.

The Chief Executive did not elaborate on what would constitute extreme cases which would be exempt grom his anti-flogging order.

The prison administration had been criticized from time to time recently for whipping of convicts and a bill to prohibit corporal punishment at prisons was introduced in the recent Legislature but failed to pass.

KICKS OVER SECURITY

Elizabeth's Gown Material Makes Page 1 in London

LONDON, Oct. 24—(UP)—The London Evening Standard, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, Friday kicked over the most elaborate security guard ever placed around a gown by publishing a front-page photograph showing the white satin material from which Princess Elizabeth's wedding dress is being made.

The photograph was taken in Normal Hartnell's Salon where the gown is being tailored and its authenticity is beyond question. It shows three types of material draped over a sofa in the designer's fitting rooms. They bear the placards "bridesmaid's dress," "going-away costume" and "wedding gown."

Hartnell is trying so hard to keep the gown a secret—on Elizabeth's orders, it is said—that only a few hours before the paper appeared he had whitewashed the windows of his Bruton Street Salon. He charged fashion spies with binoculars were peering in from neighboring buildings.

The photograph showed every Briton, without the aid of binoculars, that the wedding gown was heavy white satin. It was somewhat wider than the usual 36 inches, and the next most usual British width is 54 inches. The newspaper said a fine, misty white tulle veil had been selected to go with it.

The bridesmaids' dresses are of silk net draped over pure satin with tiara headdresses of flowers, apparently lilies. The bride's going-away suit is shown as smoky gray fine wool.

The newspaper explained the photograph had been obtained in "normal course" in New York and was published without qualms because the Evening Standard had refused to sign any secrecy agreement that would prevent it from publishing details of the gown at the first opportunity.

The photograph of the gown was taken last week by photographers who were sworn not to release the pictures before the wedding date, Nov. 20. The Evening Standard said it had declined to attend the preview because those who did had to agree on the Nov. Nov. 20 release date.

The Evening Standard said it was considered the newspaper's duty to "give the news to the public at the earliest moment."

Details of the gown have been ordered kept secret because there allegedly is an overwhelming desire by American women to be married in an exact copy of the Princess' gown—but cheaper—and fashion spies from the United States are invading London to snatch the design.

Less Wheat Fed to Stock; Export Goal May Be Reached

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—The Agriculture Department said Friday that it has found an important reduction in the domestic use of wheat started even before the save-grain-for-Europe campaign began.

It said that domestic use of wheat for the first quarter of the crop year—July through September—was about 15,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. It apparently reflected a lower rate of feeding wheat to livestock than in the same period in 1946.

The Department estimated July-August-September domestic use at 215,000,000 bushels of wheat. If domestic use can be held to an average of 225,000,000 bushels a quarter the remainder of the crop year, the export goal of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat could be reached.

The effort now will be to hold to that average of 225,000,000 bushels—and this runs into the fact that domestic use of wheat is heavier in the Winter quarter than in the Spring and Summer quarters.

A month ago the Cabinet Food Committee reported that at the then current rates of consumption, the United States could export 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and 70,000,000 bushels of other grain.

A goal of 570,000,000 bushels of all grain was set as needed, however, and the Administration has launched a many-sided campaign to raise the wheat export figure to the 500,000,000 level.

A representative of the turkey industry meanwhile told Citizens Food Committee Chairman Charles Luckman that inclusion of turkeys in the "poultry-less Thursday" plan handicapped the grain conservation program.

R. E. Janes, member of the Executive Committee of the National Turkey Federation, told reporters he had submitted a brief to that effect to Luckman and that a decision had been promised by Monday.

Janes said approximately 30,000,000 turkeys now on farms are eating 8,100,000 bushels of grain monthly. He declared that the demand for turkeys has slackened and that if a price decline continues the Government may have to start buying turkeys under its price-support program.

The Food Committee announced that representatives of the fish and shell fish industries agreed to increase fish production "up to 25 percent if necessary" to handle any increased demand resulting from the food conservation drive.

Spokesmen attending meetings here expressed confidence, Luckman said, that the additional fish could be provided "at reasonable prices."

5 BROTHERS GOT 'START' IN ATLANTA

Edison Stores' 25th Anniversary Feted by Personnel in St. Louis

One of the bugaboos of Big Business was laid to rest in St. Louis Friday night.

The Big Business — Edison Brothers Stores, Inc.—is really big, it is the largest retail women's shoe business in America.

In an impressive ceremony, 4,600 employees gave a banquet for five brothers who 25 years earlier ran three modest little shoe stores in Atlanta. They were: Harry, Sam, Mark, Simon and Irving Edison.

The Edison brothers' story in one respect sounds like a run-of-the-mill business success story: from three small stores in Atlanta to 184 stores in 35 States and 102 communities.

The difference lies in other statistics. The Edison brothers had one firm principle that whatever promotions were made should be made among the men who worked for the organization.

Joseph Arenson, a former salesman in the Atlanta store, now lives in Los Angeles and is Vice President of the Company in charge of Pacific Coast operations. Eighteen regional managers and 184 managers were all Edison salespeople at one time.

The employees know of this record and are encouraged by it to stay with the Company. And, in tribute to the five brothers who made the policy work, they held a banquet.

They also dug into their own pockets, came up with $3,500 and coaxed the Edisons into sitting for a portrait. They gave the Edisons the portrait Friday night. They also asked Mayor Hartsfield to come from Atlanta and join them in honoring the five men.

The beginning of the Edison chain really began when the five brothers decided to stop competing with each other in Atlanta. They joined their resources and opened a store called Chandler's Boot Shop in Atlanta. Its success encouraged them to open more.

The stores, known as the Chandler and Burt Shoe Stores, soon stretched from Seattle to Hartford across the northern part of the map and from San Diego to Miami across the south.

Their sales last year totaled $65,000,000, will reach $70,000,000 this year and are expected to reach $100,000,000 soon.

Edison Brothers Stores, Inc., operates four chains of shoe stores, each merchandising in a particular price zone. They do not believe in mixing prices under one roof.

Ramadier Sees French Aid In U. S. Special Session

PARIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—A spokesman for Premier Paul Ramadier said Friday night that President Truman's call to Congress for a special session Nov. 17 may strengthen the hand of the French Government in its appeal for a vote of confidence from the National Assembly next week.

The Socialist Premier's policy of "playing the American card" has been under violent attack from the Communists ever since the Russians refused to participate in the Paris Marshall Plan Conference. Some Rightists, too, have expressed skepticism whether Ramadier could "produce the goods" in the shape of American aid.

The French Premier, however, has based his economic policy more and more on receiving American financial help, and French opinion Friday interpreted the calling of a special session of Congress as a step toward that aid.

Franc-Tireur, an extreme Left newspaper, said the summoning of Congress meant President Truman "has made his choice between Ramadier and De Gaulle."

Gen. De Gaulle, the paper said, "was staking on the impossibility for Congress to take a decision before next Spring, which would have let him pluck, after a severe Winter of hardships, the ripe fruit of American credits." A French general election is due next Spring.

Franc-Tireur added that the President's decision did not necessarily mean Congress would accept his projects "but it is beyond all question that the psychological effect sought by Washington will be used by Ramadier."

The National Assembly meets Tuesday and votes Thursday after two days of general debate on the Government's economic and political policy.

Some observers believed that if Ramadier fell, President Vincent Auriol would call on the Radical-Socialists, led by Edouard Herriot, to form a new government with Socialist and Popular Republican participation. Foreign Minister Bidault is the best known member of the latter party.

French newspapers gave large headlines to President Truman's action, and a Foreign Ministry spokesman expressed "great appreciation and satisfaction" at the call for a special Congress session.

The spokesman noted press reports that some $350,000,000 would probably be requested for stopgap assistance to France until the Marshall Plan is effective, and said this would carry the nation through until April 1.

More Men Needed In Armed Forces

Captain Edgar T. Neale, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station, told members of the Optimist Club Friday the American people are feeling a security due to the possession of the atomic bomb.

"However, your Army, Navy and Air Forces are just an empty shell," he asserted. "Those of us in the Armed Forces thought the discouraging apathy of the American people toward the Armed Services in peacetime had changed after World War II, but no sooner had our enemies been defeated than the same old chorus: 'Get my boy out of uniform' arose".

Captain Neale called on his listeners to take an active interest in the recruiting program.

Taft Unveils His Boom for GOP Honors

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 24—(UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, announced his candidacy for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination Friday and said he "might" seek delegates to the National Convention at preferential primary contests.

Taft declared, however, he was "not going to take an active part" in the campaign to put him in the White House.

He said he had no intention now of entering the primaries in Oregon or Wisconsin but that the Taft campaign Committee might find it desirable to enter the primaries in some States in which there are no active contests.

Taft avoided questions on the strength of Presidential candidates and refused to comment on whether he had discussed with Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota and only other announced candidate, the possibility of a Taft-Stassen ticket.

At a press conference Taft warned that President Truman's proposal to allocate scarce goods to purchasers in an effort to hold prices down could result in the return of widespread black market-operations.

The Senate GOP policy leader said the Texas portion of a campaign swing through four Southwestern States about Nov. 15 already had been cancelled because of the President's call for a special session and that other engagements in Missouri, Oklahoma and Wisconsin might not be filled.

Hartsfield Thanked For Aid to Tenants

Mayor Hartsfield Friday received the thanks of 18 families for whom he interceded when L. C. Warren, owner of properties at 318-334 Moreland Ave., N. E., planned to replace an existing group of old apartments with a 100-unit $1,000,000 improvement.

Warren agreed to make the improvement by units and to provide living quarters for those now occupying the old apartments. A resolution thanking Hartsfield for his assistance said in part: "We extend to you our appreciation for your kindness in interceding in our behalf."

BROTHERLY LOVE

Man, 93, Ill, Needs Care

A. J. Watson, of College Park, "past 80 years old," has searched in vain for a nursing home here in which to place his 93-year-old half brother, James Frank Butler, of Warren County.

Watson, who gets around with difficulty himself, explained that his brother is ill and needs nursing care.

"He helped raise me," Watson said, "and now I've got to help him. I might go down in defeat, but I'll go down fighting."

Butler has been living with a niece in Warren County, but now the niece is sick and must be hospitalized.

Watson said all the convalescent nursing establishments he has queried were full. He stressed that he was not looking for charity—just a "home for my brother." He asked that anyone with a possible solution write A. J. Watson, Route No. 1, College Park.

Mother, Children Hurt in Crash

An Atlanta woman and her three small children were injured Friday night in an automobile accident on Bankhead Highway, Fulton County Police reported.

Fulton Patrolmen L. C. Clay and J. L. Waters identified the injured as Mrs. Eileen Ann Everhardt and her children, Mary Ann, Clyde Weldon, Jr., and Tommy Everhardt, all of 2045 Baker Rd., N. W. None was seriously injured, police said, although Clyde and Tommy were admitted to Grady Hospital for treatment of concussions and for further observation.

According to the officers, the automobile, driven by Mrs. Everhardt, skidded on wet pavement and crashed head-on into a large highway truck. The truck was not damaged and its driver was not injured, police said.

Escapee Nabbed At Summerville

Constitution State News Service.

SUMMERVILLE, Oct. 24—D. D. Browning, alias D. D. Brown, who escaped from a public works group at Marietta by jumping off a truck, was captured at the home of relatives near here, Sheriff H. H. Glenn reported Friday.

The sheriff said he acted on a tip and apprehended Browning 12 miles west of Summerville, who offered no resistance. Browning was serving a six-month term for "driving while under the influence," the sheriff said. The sheriff said Browning also was wanted in Summerville on two charges of forgery.

Cobb County Police Chief Esmer Ward, of Marietta, said an officer would leave Friday for Summerville to pick up Browning, the sheriff said.

Ten Georgians Fly to Maine To Fight Fire

Ten veteran fire-fighters from the Atlanta headquarters of the U. S. Forest Service and national forests in this area left by air today at 1:30 a. m. for Maine, where they will aid Maine forestry officials in fighting the raging fires in New England.

J. Herbert Stone, Regional Forester here, sent the crew following an urgent request from Lyle F. Watts, Washington Chief of the U. S. Forest Service. An Army transport plane, provided by Washington, picked up the men at the Municipal Airport here and was scheduled to pick up additional fire-fighters during a brief stop-over in Washington.

Two Army bomber loads of forest fire-fighting equipment have been dispatched from the Spokane, Wash., warehouse of the Forest Service, Stone was informed, and fire-fighters from Northern and Western States will join the Southeastern crew in Maine.

Four Atlantans were among the group leaving here early today. They are John Cooper, of 167 Howard St., N. E.; George Pilmer, of 39 Roseclair Dr., S. E.; John Black, of 934 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., and Fred Ruff, of a downtown hotel. All are attached to the Atlanta Forest Service office.

Others in the crew are Archie Smith, of 143 Maxwell St., Decatur; Larry Newcomb, of Valdosta; John Spring, of Gainesville; Vic McNaughton, of Montgomery, Ala.; Joe Frykman, of Cleveland, Tenn., and E. W. Renshaw, of Franklin, N. C.

Soldier Killed As He Attempts Stockade Escape

A 32-year-old Army private was shot and killed Friday morning as he sought to escape from Fort McPherson stockade where he was awaiting court-martial on a charge of being absent without leave.

Capt. Anne Hara McGovern, Public Information Officer, identified the dead man as Pvt. Beecher B. Hamby, 32, Route 1, McDonald, Tenn. Hamby, she said, climbed the inner wire fence of the stockade. A guard pleaded with him to halt. Hamby refused and the guard shot near him. Hamby then climbed the outer fence and was shot and killed outside the stockade.

The Army plans an investigation of the slaying, Capt. McGovern reported. Identity of the guard was not disclosed.

The Army reported Hamby had been AWOL a year and five months from Fort Oglethorpe when he was apprehended recently in Chattanooga, Tenn. He escaped in Chattanooga and was caught again at his home in McDonald Sept. 12, 1947.

Hamby is survived by his wife, who lives at Route 1, McDonald.

FIREFIGHTERS—A map of the territory in which they will help combat the raging forest fire in Maine is studied at the last minute by five picked men just before leaving for New England Friday night. Why High Court Held Some Measures Voided

Here's the paragraph of the State Constitution which the State Supreme Court Friday said voided local bills which do not have certification of advertising as a part of the enrolled copy (permanently bound in the Secretary of State's office) of the bill:

Article III, Section 7, Paragraph 15:

"Notice of intention to ask local legislation necessary. No local or special bill shall be passed, unless notice of intention to apply therefor shall have been published in the newspaper in which the Sheriff's advertisements for the locality affected are published, once a week for three weeks during a period of sixty days immediately preceding its introduction into the General Assembly. No local or special bill shall become law unless there is attached to and made a part of said bill a copy of said notice certified by the publishers, or accompanied by an affidavit of the author to the effect that said notice has been published as provided by law."

Most of the local bills passed in 1947 apparently were properly advertised and had the certificates of advertising attached to them when passed. House Clerk Joe Boone failed to make the certificate of advertising a part of the enrolled copy of the bills in preparing them for the Secretary of State. Mrs. Henry Nevin, Senate Secretary, did not include the advertisement in the enrolled copy of the Senate bills, but she did include a phrase "a certification of advertising is attached to the original copy of the bill."

Hearing Slated On Federal-Aid Hospital Plans

A Statewide public hearing on plans to build Federal-aid hospitals throughout Georgia will be held at the House chamber in the State Capitol Oct. 30 at 2:30 p. m.

The hearing will be conducted by the State Department of Public Health.

Hospital building plans recently approved by the State Board of Health will be submitted to the people for discussion and suggested changes.

Acting Gov. Thompson will speak. Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, Director of the State Health Department, will preside.

'Confidential' But— No Secrets Involved

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 24. (AP)—Atomic secrets apparently were not at stake, but police were mildly surprised to receive from ULCA student Seymour Thomas two building blueprints stamped "Confidential, property of Atomic Energy Commission.

Thomas said he found them on a lawn. The commission is building a research laboratory at UCLA. The Federal Bureau of Investigation had the plans Friday.

A spokesman for the commission said that all such drawings, however insignificant, bear the "confidential" stamp.

A Great City Paused at Noon Friday to Honor Its Dead of World War II. Scene at Five Points

Robinson Denied Liberty

Fulton Superior Court Judge Frank A. Hooper, Jr., Friday refused to set bond here for Glenn Robinson, Atlanta taxi driver, accused of the slaying of Mrs. Jeanette Reyman.

Attorneys for Robinson made the appeal, saying that Robinson had to earn money to support his wife and four children. There was no danger of his escaping, they said.

Sol. Gen. Paul Webb opposed granting Robinson freedom on bond, saying that in two trials 15 men under oath had held him guilty. If he was guilty, which Webb said he believed, then he was too dangerous to be at large, the solicitor asserted.

Judge Hooper, in refusing to set bond, said if there should be any unreasonable delay in bringing Robinson to trial again, he would give Robinson's appeal serious consideration.

Trial of Robinson for the second time ended Thursday night when jurors found themselves deadlocked seven for conviction and five for acquittal. Earlier, another jury had split eight for conviction and four for acquittal.

Dalton Cites British Drain On Treasury

LONDON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Hugh Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons Friday that the drain on Britain's gold and dollar resources by the end of 1948 would still be at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year even if she succeeded in achieving all of the program outlined by Economics Minister Stafford Cripps.

The current drain, he said, was averaging $70,000,000 a week ($3,640,000,000 a year), a rate which he described as "ruinous" if continued. The outgo reached a peak of $237,000,000 a week (a rate of $12,344,000,000 a year) in mid-August, when Britain was forced to suspend the free convertibility of her sterling into dollars in trade with other than dollar countries, he added.

"If we succeed in achieving all that Sir Stafford Cripps has laid down, we shall still be facing at the beginning of 1949 a dollar deficit at the rate of one thousand million dollars, or $20,000,000 a week," Dalton said.

"It can only be checked by exporting more and importing less in respect to the dollar area," he declared. "There is no other way round at all."

Sir Stafford Thursday announced that tobacco imports from the United States were being banned, food imports from the dollar area curtailed in such a manner as to reduce Britain's diet from an average of 2,870 calories daily to 2,700, and the housing program cut down in order to reduce the dollar outgo.

Bitten by Dog? Call HE. 3276

W. H. Brown, City Rabies Control Officer, Friday was concerned over anyone who may have been bitten by a large, red-brown, shaggy, part-collie dog weighing about 45 pounds, which his men captured near the Federal Prison on McDonough Boulevard

Brown said the animal has clinical rabies and that anyone bitten by him is in danger. Investigation showed that the dog was owned by Julia Jones, of 6 Green Street, Egan Park, near East Point.

"We urge anyone bitten by him to contact us at once," Brown said. "If he wandered that far away from home, there is every likelihood that he may have bitten someone and any person bitten is in danger. Call us at HE. 3276."

He said he hoped the discussions would lead to final closing of WAA Agencies at the field.

'BUT MORE OF REVERENCE IN US DWELL'

Downtown Atlanta Pauses To Honor Dead

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

The heart of Atlanta skipped a beat at noon Friday.

For 30 seconds absolute quiet prevailed downtown as everybody — hurrying pedestrians, shoppers, women with babies in their arms, traffic cops, trolley operators, all of them—stopped where they were and observed a moment of prayerful silence in honor of the war dead.

The brief memorial service was keynoted with a ceremony at Five Points beneath the pole where the flag drooped at half mast.

As factory whistles sounded the signal a group of three citizens, Mrs. W. J. Ashendorf, of the Gold Star Mothers; James C. Lansford, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Rep. James C. Davis, bowed their heads.

A firing squad of military police from Fort McPherson stood at attention and citizens who lined the sidewalks or sat in halted cars closed their eyes.

When the 30 seconds had passed, Cmdr. Lansford placed a wreath of flowers beneath the flag pole and members of the firing squad lifted their rifles and fired a volley into the air. A bugler from Fort McPherson sounded "Taps," symbolizing the close of the wordless service.

More Dimes Must Join March To Wage Polio War in 1948

More than 200 persons who will lead the 1948 March of Dimes campaigns in the eight Southeastern States in January heard an appeal Friday for a 50 percent increase in funds over amounts raised in previous years.

Miss Elaine Whitelaw, Director of Women's Activities of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said a large increase in contributions would be necessary to replenish the coffers financing epidemic aid and expanded programs of education and research.

Miss Whitelaw traced the ten-year history of the National Foundation at the closing session of the two-day planning meeting, and pointed out that financial aid had been given to "upwards of 88,000 cases." Approximately 112,000 cases were reported in the decade, and about four-fifths were given assistance by the Foundation, she added.

Miss Whitelaw said the strategy of the National Foundation was plotted to one goal: Freedom from fear of polio.

She described the Foundation's efforts to train physicians, nurses and physiotherapists in modern methods of treating the crippled disease. She said the educational campaign had resulted in 725 hospitals opening their doors to patients with acute polio, compared with ondy 300 hospitals accepting such cases ten years ago.

Research sponsored by the Foundation is aimed, she said, at (1) finding a vaccine to immunize humans against polio, (2) finding seruum that will arrest the disease once it enters the body and (3) reducing crippling after-effects of the disease.

Dr. Robert L. Bennett, Director of Physical Medicine at the Warm Springs Foundation, told the campaign leaders earlier that nearly all disfigurements from polio could be prevented if correct treatment of the disease were started early.

18 Injured In Blast in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24—(AP)—A chemical explosion ripped out three floors of a drug company laboratory Friday, injuring at least 18 persons.

Officials at St. Marys Hospital, near the blast scene, reported two of the injured brought there were so badly burned they were given little chance to survive.

Early reports that some of the 300 workers in the plant were trapped beneath debris were declared incorrect by a company spokesman.

The explosion tore a gaping hole in the corner of the Smith, Kline & French Drug Company, manufacturing pharmacists, at 35 N. Poplar St., in Northeast Philadelphia.

Invite Lawyer To Police Quiz

Recognition of the recent order issued by Federal Judge Marvin Underwood in Paul Refoule's civil rights suit will be made today when an attorney "sits in" on the questioning of a police suspect.

Attorney James A. Belflower has been requested by City Detectives W. L. Gower and R. E. Little to be present this morning when Jesse Hinesman, Negro, is questioned in connection with the murder of Thomas Holmes, Negro, Oct. 16, at the corner of Pryor and Decatur Sts.

Police, who reached the scene soon after the stabbing of Holmes, had arrested Charlie Brown, Negro, on a charge of suspicion of murder. They said, however, that further investigation resulted in the arrest of Hinesman, who will be questioned today.

Hotel Receivers To Get $43,185

The Home Fire and Marine Insurance Company Friday was ordered by Fulton Superior Court Judge Bond Almand to pay to Winecoff Hotel receivers the sum of $43,185.24 on a policy issued to A. F. Geele, Jr., A. F. Geele, Sr., and R. E. O'Connell, operators of the hotel which burned with a loss of 119 lives.

Rep. Davis Offers Postal Plan

The United States Postal Service can save $12,500,000 in five years and deliver letters to you faster, according to Rep. Davis.

Davis' appointment to a subcommittee studying mechanization of the nation's postal service was announced Friday by Edward H. Rees, Republican, Kansas, Chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

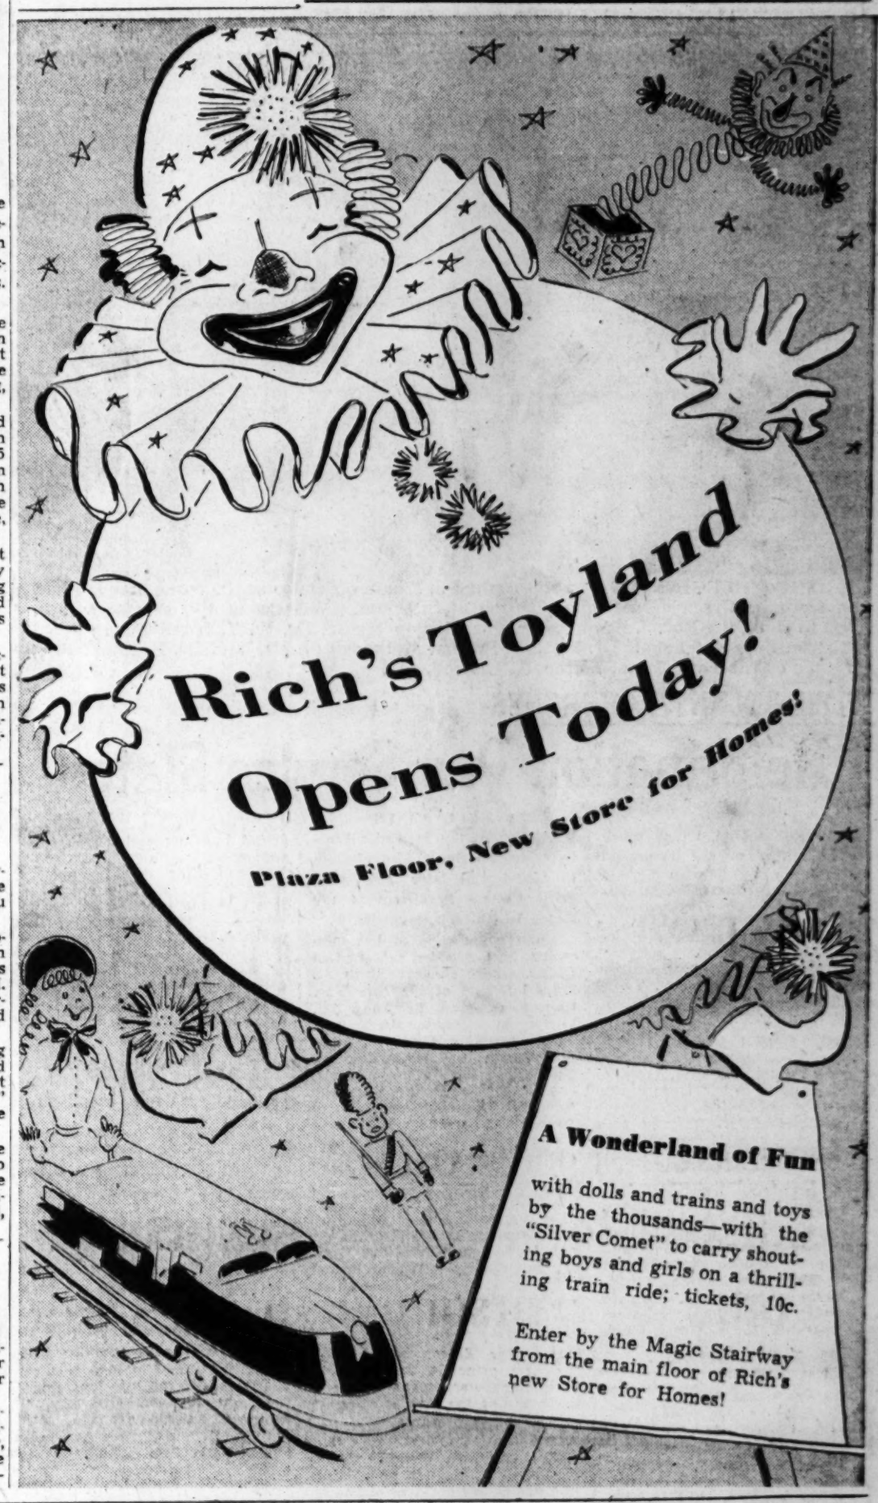

"Post office trucks running around Atlanta have been handled carefully and economically but are getting in pretty bad shape," Davis said here. Many are more than 20 years old, he added.

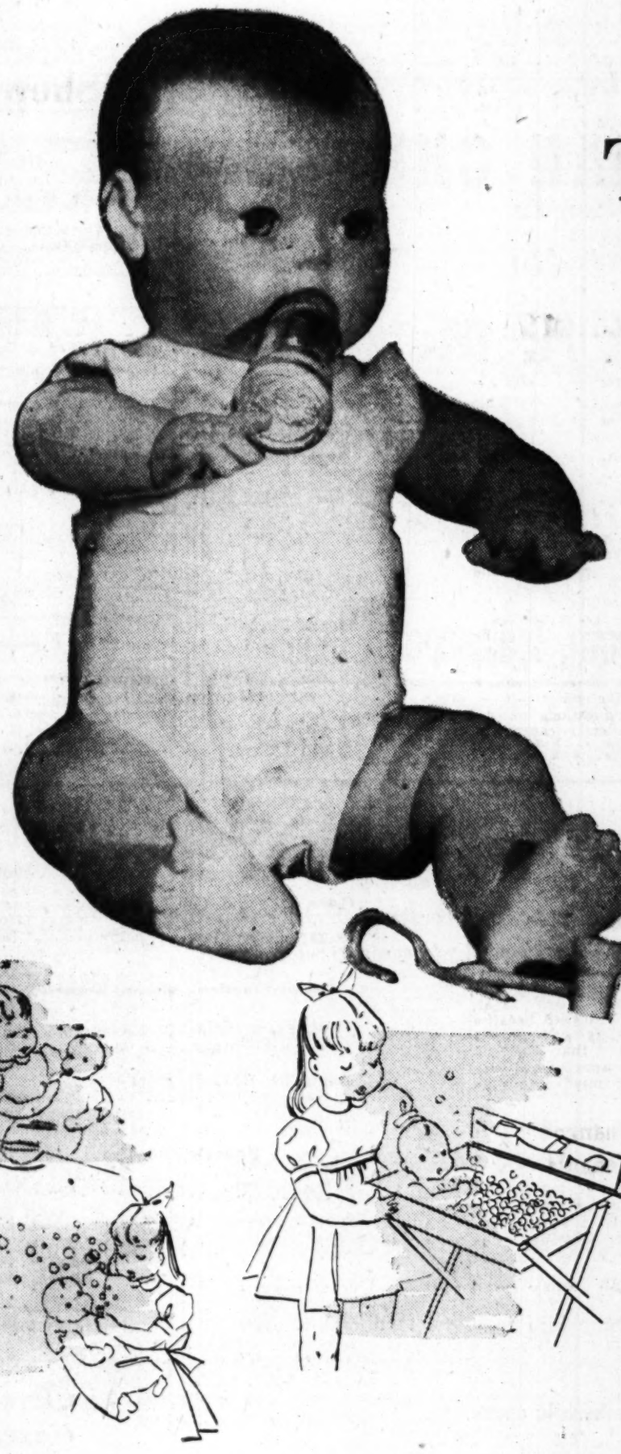

Davis said he felt bringing the service's entire vehicle unit up to date was needed economy. The U. S. Postal Service has been running $350,000,000 a year in the red, he said.

Dr. Morrison's topic will be "Protestantism—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

His outspoken leadership of the Christian Century caused it to be referred to as "the most influential organ of opinion in the world of Protestantism." His insistence upon separation of State and church has established Dr. Morrison as a champion of the Protestant world platform.

Upon completion of her education, Mrs. Sanford returned to China, where she taught in St. Mary's School of the American Church Mission in Shanghai, then in Soochow Academy. While teaching there she was married to the Rev. Edgar L. Sanford, of the American (Episcopal) Mission. She and the Rev. Mr. Sanford returned to America when he was named pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Moorestown.

Expect No War But Be Ready, Baruch Warns

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch said Friday he does not expect war between Russia and the United States, but he declared that this country must be ready for anything "forced upon us."

"Although the shooting war is over we are in the midst of a cold war which is getting warmer," Baruch said as he told the Senate War Investigating Committee that it is time to quit talking about the mistakes of the past two wars and face present problems.

The Senate group has been asking a number of World War II officials why a detailed industrial mobilization plan—which Baruch, financier and adviser to several Presidents, drew up in World War I and helped revise later—was not put into operation.

Baruch testified that failure to adopt and quickly apply mobilization controls in World War II "cost us unnecessarily, thousands of lives, extra billions of dollars and months of time."

He also blamed the present upward surge in prices upon mistakes made in not applying full wartime control and removal of others too early.

When asked why the late President Roosevelt and others did not put his industrial mobilization scheme into full operation, Baruch said:

"I can't shed any light on that."

Unusual Sermons

"A BOMBER'S VOW"—A story of how a World War II veteran's experience over Germany made him more humble. In the thick of battle he reaffirmed his pledge to be more faithful to his church and to his God. It will be told by the Rev. John Waldrop, Pastor of West End Baptist Church, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

"A GREAT MAN, BUT A LEPER"—The Rev. Ted M. Jones, of Peachtree Baptist, associates the story of Naaman, the Captain of the King, who was doomed by leprosy, with the disease of sin, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

"BE POOR TO GET RICH"—The Rev. Cecil Myers, Pastor of the Brookhaven Methodist Church, talks on the reward of humility in the first of a series of sermons based on the eight beatitudes or goals Christ set down for his followers, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Atlantan Wins Peabody Award

Joseph C. Bledsoe, son of Mrs. J. A. Bledsoe, 1406 Bankhead Ave., N. W., is one of eight graduate students at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., recently awarded Jesse H. Jones scholarships on the basis of "superior work in the field of education."

Bledsoe, an honor graduate of Fulton High School, attended Oglethorpe University and the University of Georgia. He received his A. B. and M. S. degrees in education at the University of Georgia, and now is working on his doctorate at Peabody.

The Jones scholarships were set up at Peabody College last Spring by Jesse H. Jones, former U. S. Secretary of Commerce and a trustee of the college, for the purpose of helping young educators "who have demonstrated superior promise by the quality of their work."

Bledsoe is a brother of J. Troy Bledsoe, of The Constitution's Circulation Department. He has two sisters in Atlanta, Mrs. J. H. Donehoo and Mrs. J. T. Wright.

7:45 P. M.—"Is Your Religion Up To Date?", Rev. Emmett McNabb

Concerning Community Church:

This Church is "The House of Prayer" for all people where "The Kingdom of God is in the heart of man." Here is a Church that is a place of help for all people. It is not a center of denominational or sectarian propaganda, but a Temple where men from every walk of life come to worship their God. It is the meeting place of weak humanity and a forgiving Lord.

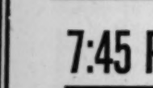

It is a Workshop where an intelligent and sincere effort is made to help any person—regardless of his need.

Here the gracious Spirit of the Christ is exemplified. No uncharitable judgment will ever be passed upon any fellow human being. No one's race or religion will ever be condemned. It is a "House of Prayer for all People." At all times a sympathetic invitation is extended to every man, woman and child to come to this place of help. No one will be denied.

Here in both spirit and practice this Church is co-operative with every good cause. Every movement and institution that helps to lift mankind and encourage him to know God and to live abundantly will receive the active support of this Church.

Opening lead: king of hearts.

The tendency to lead through strength, a heritage from our Pilgrim fathers of a less enlightened era, is perhaps the outstanding flaw in the defensive game of the average player today.

To attack the enemy at his strongest points seems to me equally unsound whether in battle grounds, on the field of sport, or at the card table. The simplest and it seems the most effective strategy is to pick off setting tricks before the declarer gets his big guns into action. Today's hand provides a typical example.

The bidding was short and to the point. South had a natural opening of one spade and West an equally normal overcall, even though vulnerable. North felt there was no special advantage in showing the club suit, and since he was unwilling to play for less than a game in spades, made a direct forcing raise.

The opening lead was the king of hearts. East played the 10 and South the deuce. The hand rests or falls with West's next lead. There is a temptation to follow through with the ace and another heart. Partner's 10 may be the start of a high low, which is a play he should make only if able to overruff dummy, which is rather unlikely in this case. Or the 10 may be a singleton, or accompanied by a higher honor.

In any case it would be dangerous to continue with the ace for fear of setting up a trick for declarer, which could be used to obtain a diamond discard out of dummy. Observing the strength in dummy, West lazily led the eight of clubs through it. Declarer did not take time out for a finesse. He won the trick, extracted the trumps and immediately established the club suit for the necessary discards.

Both vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 hearts	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

A moment's reflection should make it evident that unless the defense could win a diamond trick, their case was a very weak one. The bidding indicates pretty clearly that South has the ace of diamonds and if he also has the king of clubs there is no hope.

If partner has the king of clubs there is no hurry about setting it up but a diamond trick must be built up quickly. This can be done only if partner has the queen of diamonds. The point is, time may kill a diamond trick but it cannot wither the king of clubs. So West might just as well have prayed for partner to have the queen of diamonds. His prayer would have been answered. There's lots of good luck awaiting those who will go out and fetch it.

Martin Denied Habeas Corpus

Petition for a writ of habeas corpus brought by Fred Martin, convicted lottery operator, to secure his release from Fulton Tower was denied Friday by Judge Walter C. Hendrix, of Fulton Superior Court. Martin's attorney, Wesley Asinoff, contended his client's case was still in the appeal stage.

Martin was arrested Wednesday after $15,000 in cash of a $20,000 bond had been forfeited. Martin was convicted in 1945 on 15 counts of lottery and given sentences totalling six years. In addition he was fined $9,000.

Claude Smith, another convicted lottery operator who on Wednesday paid $5,000 in the hope of thereby avoiding a jail sentence, on Friday was given a week in which to surrender to avoid forfeiture of his $15,000 bond.

2 More Loaners Indicted in Drive

The Fulton County Grand Jury Friday indicted two more Atlanta loan companies for charging illegal rates of interest.

This brings to more than a score the number of indictments returned in Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's campaign against loan companies charging usurious rates.

One indictment named the Wall St. Finance Company and D. C. Johnson, Manager, on three counts. The other named E. Bryant and Mrs. Nell D. Brant on five counts.

MARKET NEWS

Special Session Of Congress Call Brings Stock Skid

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(AP)—Selling tumbled leading stocks and major commodities today, following the summoning of a special Congressional session, but low-quoted motor shares contested the retreat with modest advances on relatively heavy volume.

Liquidation generally was based mainly on the idea that the move to have Congress open a battle against the living cost spiral and provide quick dollar relief for Europe might unsettle the domestic economic situation. Offerings also were attributed to the inability of the market in recent sessions to penetrate the July highs, which was considered bearish by chart followers. Another big batch of favorable dividends and earnings, on the whole, was ignored. Speculative optimism, rather than any news, buoyed the automotive climbers.

Dealings, fast in the forenoon with the "penny" motors monopolizing the ticker tape on blocks running to 10,000 shares, tapered after midday and extreme losses of one to three or more points were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,650,000 shares compared with 1,190,000 Thursday and were a top since Monday. It was the tenth successive full day with the million mark exceeded.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 1 point at 66.2, largest dip since Aug. 8. The index was at its lowest level since Oct. 11. It was another broad market, 1,063 issues registering. Of these, 795 fell and 134 rose.

The Bond Market headed downward over a broad front today. As the session swung into the final hour losses of fractions to more than a point dotted the list. Turnover was slow at the start, as investors studied implications of the call for a special session of Congress, but gained a little momentum toward the finish. A downward trend in stocks contributed to uneasiness in the bond division. Rails provided most of the activity, with a small handful managing to work against the trend for minor gains. Support was accorded mainly to issues in the top price brackets.

Forward curb leaders included Colts Mfg., Crystal Oil, Graham-Paige preferred, Root Petroleum and American Gas. Backward were Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, Sherwin-Williams and Derby Oil. Turnover here was 440,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

All Grain Prices Tumble Sharply On Congress Call

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—(AP)—Prices crashed on the Board of Trade today, wheat, corn, oats and soybeans all tumbling permissable limits in response to President Truman's call for a special session of Congress.

Several times during the day prices hit the daily limits and then bounded back a few cents. These rallies lacked real vigor, however, and at the close everything was down at the bottom except lard. Lard ended 95 cents to $1.08 a hundred pounds lower.

Wheat lost 10 cents, December ending at $3.02⅝, corn 8 cents, December $2.22⅞, oats 6 cents, December $1.15½, and soybeans 8 cents, November $3.47.

One of the major purposes of the special congressional session, President Truman said, will be to combat inflationary price rises. What action will be taken was not definitely known, but Washington dispatches placed an allocation system for domestic uses high on the list of possibilities.

Grain men said this might work in a fashion similar to that which applied to wheat during the first World War. The Government bought all the wheat coming to market at a fixed price, allocating a portion of supplies to mills and other users. Trading in wheat futures was suspended.

In the face of the Washington news, the general run of grain trade items had little market influence. A few scattered showers fell in the Southwest. The five-day weather outlook was not optimistic, stating that little precipitation was indicated except for moderate showers in the east and south part of Missouri and Northeast Oklahoma on Saturday.

Cash dealers reported greater offerings of corn by the country, bookings being placed at 125,000 bushels.

N. O. Cotton Futures Hit by Liquidation

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24—(AP)—Cotton futures tobogganed $3.65 to $5.20 a bale here today under heavy long liquidation. The closing tone was barely steady.

President Truman's call for a special session of Congress to halt spiralling prices and to provide financial aid to Western Europe was the principal reason for the slide. At times persistent mill buying caused rallies, but offerings were too heavy to be absorbed.

IN COLLISION OFF CALIFORNIA

37 of Crew of 38 Men Escape Oil Tanker Fire

MONTEREY, Calif., Oct. 24—(AP) Thirty-seven men of a crew of 38 escaped unhurt early Friday from a blazing oil tanker which burst into flame following a collision with a freighter on a fog-shrouded ocean.

One man was missing. Coast Guard officers said he may have died in an explosion in the ship's forward tank.

Some 10 hours after the tanker Sparrows Point and the Canadian motorship Manx Fisher crashed 15 miles off Point Sur, Capt. Svend Nilsen of Long Beach and his men were able to reboard the ship. The fire had been extinguished by a Navy tug.

The Manx Fisher was only slightly damaged and subsequently proceeded on her course, escorted by the Coast Guard cutter Minnetonka.

Coast Guard officers said efforts were being made to get the Sparrows Point under way, too, and that its emergency radio was operating in tests.

Early reports said four men were feared lost. The Coast Guard explained that the erroneous report arose from misleading information on the number of men in two lifeboats which were picked up by the cutter Minnetonka and the tanker Colina which went to the rescue.

They added, too, that the Richfield Oil Company in Los Angeles said the tanker carried 39 men but that Capt. Nilsen said there were only 38 aboard.

The tanker was enroute from Seattle to Long Beach in ballast.

The Sparrows Point, a ship of 10,180 gross tons (16,372 deadweight) was built at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company's Sparrows Point yard in Baltimore in 1942.

Royall Offers Rent Probe At Marietta

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall told representatives of U. S. Homes, Inc., Friday he will "look into the situation and give a prompt answer" on their request for lower rent on plant facilities they rent at the former Bell Bomber Plant at Marietta.

U. S. Homes, Inc., is cooperatively owned by 189 veterans and produces pre-fabricated houses.

Harold Willingham, representing the veterans, told Royall that the present rent of approximately $30,000 annually is too high and asked for "relief."

Besides Willingham, others attending the Conference with Royall included Rep. Lanham (Democrat-Georgia), Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, of Georgia, State Treasurer George Hamilton and aides of Sens. George and Russell (Georgia Democrats).

Germans Would Buy Nevada Ghost Town

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 24—(AP)—The neighboring ghost mining town of Rhyolite, which is for sale, has found bidders in 50 German ex-soldiers who want to "start all over."

Mayor E. W. Cragin of Las Vegas said he received a letter from Erich Baerwindt, of Hamburg, offering to pay $10,000 on terms for the 50 war veterans whom he described as jobless and homeless.

The Mayor declared that "welcoming such German pioneers would benefit the community and signify a human and Christian act toward the poorest of the poor."

Two women who own abandoned Rhyolite, once a bustling gold rush town, recently offered it for sale at $25,000.

Gunman Robs, Kidnaps Salesman

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 25—(AP) A salesman reported to Asheville police Friday that he had been kidnaped by an unmasked gunman who had forced him to drive from Gainesville, Ga., to a point near Asheville.

The salesman, Ira Dorn, said that a man jumped into his car in Gainesville this morning while he was waiting for a traffic light to change, pointed a short-barreled gun at him and said, "let's go."

Dorn said that he was forced to drive through Georgia into North Carolina to a wooded area near Enka, where his abductor forced him to strip, then left in his auto after taking his watch, a few dollars in cash and Masonic ring.

Sheriff Laurence E. Brown said that a police cruiser had given chase to a car identified by Dorn as his, but that the driver had escaped. The car was later found abandoned. In it was a gun, and Dorn's clothing.

Dorn said he was not molested by his captor, who talked freely and bragged of being a "big shot" liquor runner.

Police Probe Bomb Attempt

Police are investigating the attempted bombing of a Negro residence early Friday at 831 North Ave., N. W., one block from another Negro residence at 556 Chestnut St., N. W., where a fire allegedly was started Wednesday night. Both houses are in predominantly white sections, they said.

Toy Lee Cantrell, Negro woman who occupied the North Avenue dwelling, told police that a home-made bomb, made of iron pipe and loaded with explosives, was tossed into her rear window. Radio patrolmen J. E. Sikes and R. A. Cole, who answered the call to the Negro's house, removed the unexploded bomb.

The officers quoted the Negro woman as saying: "We have lived here 15 months, and we have been annoyed constantly by white people."

No arrests have been made in either the fire or attempted bombing case.

Rosaligh Nastasi, seven-year-old Savannah student at Cave Spring State School for the Deaf, was reported in fair condition last night after a race here to save her life.

The Savannah child was brought to Crawford Long Hospital with head injuries. Hospital attaches said she had been injured Monday in a fall at the school.

They said she remained ill at the school until Friday, when officials became alarmed at her condition and arranged to have her sent to Atlanta for treatment.

3 on Fulton Board May Get Extensions of Their Terms

Terms of three Fulton County Commissioners may be extended by the State Supreme Court ruling invalidating local bills which do not include the certificate of advertising in their enrolled copy.

Senate Bill 627, passed in 1947, shortened the term of three County Commissioners from four to two years for the current two-year period in order to make the terms of the five members expire simultaneously in 1948.

The enrolled copy of this Bill in the Secretary of State's office does not include the complete certification of advertising. It does include a notation in the Bill that a certificate of advertising is attached to the original Bill, but there is doubt that this is sufficient.

If the Bill is invalidated, County Commissioners R. H. Doyal and J. H. Aldredge, who were elected for two-year terms to expire Dec. 31, 1948, would be eligible to serve four-year terms, expiring in 1950. Tom Camp, appointed to succeed the late Clarence Duncan, would serve three and one-half years instead of one and one-half years.

Korean Warns Of Invasion Of S. Korea

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 24—(UP)—A Korean official said Friday that 287,000 armed Koreans, trained by the Russians in their Northern occupation zone, would invade the Southern zone controlled by the United States and take over the government as soon as Soviet and American troops were withdrawn from Korea.

Yoon Chang-Sun former national police chief in the Northern zone who escaped to South Korea last month, said that plans had been put in final form Sept. 6 at Pyongyang, Northern zone capital, by department chiefs of the Northern Interim People's Committee. It provided:

1—The order for attack would be given just prior to the expected United Nations order to disarm North Koreans.

On Sept. 17, the United States, through Secretary of State Marshall, submitted the stalemated question of formation of a Korean provisional government to the United Nations.

2—All electric power in South Korea would be turned off.

3—Seventeen thousand peace preservation corpsmen, backed up by 270,000 members of the North Korean Army would overrun South Korea, killing all police, and taking over the government. All war prisoners would be shot.

Yoon's information was reported to have received high credence by U. S. military authorities here.

Second Burglar Visits Dixie Inn

The Dixie Inn, 1061 Lee St., S. W., was burglarized the second time in two days early Friday, but Radio Patrolmen H. C. Hammond and N. W. Smith expressed the opinion that the culprits were not the same in both cases.

Hammond and Smith heard a noise on the roof of the Dixie Inn at 5 a. m. Friday, and as they investigated, they saw a man leap from the roof, they said. The man who identified himself as Eddie Dennis, Negro, 387 Henry St., N. W., received a fractured leg in the leap and is under police guard at Grady Hospital. Four watches and $6.20 were found on his person.

The safe at the Dixie Inn had been blasted open Thursday morning, and $500 in cash was taken by burglars.
